Strike by Maintenance Workers In Borough Enters Second Week

A strike by the 25 members of the Borough's maintenance department has entered its second week. Meetings between union and Borough representatives were held Monday night and again late Tuesday afternoon, but without significant progress.

Union members charge that the Borough, under the guidance of Council member Charles Cornforth, is deliberately stalling. Mr. Cornforth, before his retirement, handled negotiations for Public Service Council member Nelson van den Blink and Administrator Mark Gordon constitute the rest of the Borough's negotiating team.

The chief issue is money, although Mayor Robert W. Cawley said at his Monday press conference, "I don't know that the economic issues are all that onerous. It's management flexibility, and in particular the idea of binding arbitration, that is the real problem."

The union is Mercer Council Number 4 of the New Jersey Civil Service Association, affiliated as Local 1040 of the Communications Workers of America. Blue-collar workers voted "no" in the election.

The union is asking a nine percent salary increase for 1980, with a Cost of Living (COLA) addition of six percent. They agree to five and one-half percent for 1979, since that is the increase given other borough employees. Maintenance workers have not had a raise in two years. They do not yet have a contract and Mayor Cawley observed, "a first contract is difficult, after that, you work with already established relations, and you have a base to work from."

A maintenance worker in the Borough—and all are men—receives $3.93 an hour to start. One worker, who has been a Borough employee for 26 years, receives $6.12 an hour. The men work a 40-hour week, which means $12,729 a year for this man. Another worker, on the job 12 years, receives $4.71 an hour or $9,796 a year.

Men employed as maintenance workers by the Borough operate the heavy equipment that removes snow from the streets, repair and drain sewer lines, fill in pot-holes. One, describing himself as a jack-of-all-trades, said he was a carpenter as well, and made wooden leaf-boxes to go on the backs of trucks for autumn leaf collection.

They also mix cement and lay sidewalks. Some are mechanics responsible for keeping Borough vehicles in repair. One said this week that Borough police had had to call in an outside mechanic to repair a police car.

For purposes of comparison, there are the custodians in the Princeton Regional School District. Starting pay for a beginner custodian who does not have the license authorizing him to work on boilers, receives $8,300. The boiler license adds $200 a year to that.

At the end of 11 years, he is at the top of the scale, earning $12,800 plus $175 a year if he has 20 years or more of service. School custodians work a full year, 40 hours a week. There are also fringe benefits, besides the pay, as there are in the Borough.

Council to Seek Comment from Public On New Parking, Housing Ordinances

A pair of ordinances, one on parking and one designed to open up the Central Business District (CBD) to more housing, will be up for public discussion before Borough Council Tuesday, October 14, at 8 in Borough Hall.

This won't be a public hearing. Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Council want to hear the ideas of merchants, professional planners, officials of Palmer Square, Inc. and Princeton University, citizen members of the Steering Committee on the CBD—and possibly even buyers of Palmer Square itself.

These are highly technical ordinances, the mayor remarked this week, and the Borough expects to have drafts ready in time for informed discussion.

There is some urgency. Princeton Community Housing, Inc., must show evidence of "permissive zoning" for its 89-unit apartment house by the end of November to the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The parking amendment for the CBD, proposed by Council, would allow property-owners to use a parking garage or off-street parking for meeting parking requirements—but not for free. In return, the property-owner would have to make a cash contribution or rent spaces on a long-term basis.

The Borough also hopes to redesign the ordinance that was slapped down in court, the one in which property-owners would be encouraged or possibly even required, to use fringe parking outside the CBD for their employees.

The other amendment would eliminate what Mayor Cawley calls the "disincentives" to housing in the CBD. It would open up the floor-area ratio requirements for apartments, and reduce the amount of required open space.

"These ordinances should help a developer," the mayor observed. "They cut down on the number of variances now required."

The Borough likes the idea of concentrating development in some places and reducing it in others; for example, concentrating it in the PCH apartment at the east of the library parking lot and in an expanded Palmer Square, but reducing it in the Plaza proposed for the Witherspoon side of the library lot, in an extended Chambers Walk and in the design of an expanded Palmer Square.

"We might get a bi-lateral agreement from a developer to forego more development on a certain site, in return for something else," the mayor said. "Bonuses, for example, for public amenities."

One idea, the mayor said, is to change the definition of a "lot," so that developers could combine parcels across streets.

Meanwhile, it was off to the Planning Board Monday night, where Mayor Cawley and Borough engineer George Olexa described the proposed CBD amendment to the Master Plan. That Plan was adopted last May without a Central Business District part in its Land Use Section, because the Borough and its planning consultants, Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown, were still working on a CBD plan.

Nothing new has been added, the mayor assured the board: mixed use, with residential use encouraged, parking garages, expansion of the public library, improved public spaces; special care to the borders of the CBD. The district is bounded by Nassau, Bank, Paul Robeson and Moore. Specific policies, however, apply to shrunken perimeters Nassau-Chambers-Robeson-Tulane.

First off, the mayor bumped head-on into Planning Board member Jerome Rose who said it was the Planning Board who should have done all this. "Somebody besides the Planning Board is planning the CBD," he declared, "and this is not proper."

"We've been considerably more than skillful, regarding housing," the mayor retorted. "There are 89 PCH apartments."

"I'm not antagonistic," Dr. Rose replied. "The plan shows constructive thought, work and democratic effort and I applaud it—but I think we should have done it!"

Board chairman Margen Penick said the Planning Board hadn't had time for the CBD. Hans K. Sander pointed out that the Borough had been told, when the board rejected the first parking garage in 1978, that planning for the central business district was "beyond what a board like ours could do—urban design is a different thing. We had neither the time nor the personnel to do a Master Plan and this, too."

As discussion progressed, board members commented on Mayor Cawley's plans. They expressed particular concern about keeping Palmer Square's apartments and the Square itself, and said they wanted the fronts of Nassau Street buildings to remain as they are.

When Mrs. Penick made a strong statement in favor of keeping the Palmer Square apartments, Mayor Cawley said he was surprised. "We assumed they would remain!" he exclaimed.

Regarding "design" and the look of the CBD, board member Constance Greiff advised that an "Historic District" ordinance was the only way to preserve the CBD. "Courts throw out 'design guidelines,'" she observed.

Mayor Cawley agreed with the board that Vandeventer-Moore was an important stretch not fully covered in the report. Elizabeth Hutter and Township Mayor Josie Hall urged a more specific mention of upper Witherspoon Street. "There is housing to keep, there," Mayor Hall warned.

Responding to Planning Board uneasiness about parking surveys, Mr. Olexa outlined the study commissioned by Venturi, and explained the figures in Mayor Cawley's memorandum to the board.

A total of 1,700 parking spaces is needed, the Borough's report shows. This means 1,200 off-street spaces (maximum) plus 500 spaces outside the CBD.

Strike

So far, both sides have agreed on what the union calls "better" Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage and on certain holidays. The men wanted the Borough to provide them with rain gear—much of their work is outdoors in all weather—and although that was reportedly a sticking point, it has now been resolved. Mr. Gordon says the Borough has agreed to provide rain gear.

Disputed Point. The maintenance men are saying that the Borough is paying Princeton University to go out of town to dump its garbage during the strike, but Mr. Gordon and Borough engineer George Olexa say this is not the case.

The Borough and the University—along with the MAINTENANCE WORKERS STRIKE BOROUGH: Picketing in front of Borough Hall are these four members of the municipality's maintenance force. Voting two years ago to form a union, the group is now negotiating its first contract. Left to right are Thomas Nedzbala, Ron May, Tucker Sinclair and Anthony Iezzo. Mr. Sinclair has been working for the Borough for 20 years. The others began this summer.

Township—belong to the Sewer Operating Committee. The SOC takes "solid waste" (garbage) to Bordentown for disposal, under contract. Since the strike has been on, the University has been hauling its own garbage to Bordentown.

The SOC is still paying Bordentown under the contract, the University is still paying the SOC its allotted amount under the three-way agreement. It is possible, although this has not yet been determined, that the additional costs incurred by the University will be deducted from their SOC assessment.

Issues still to be settled include deduction of union dues from paychecks, and an anti-discrimination clause. The Borough says that since both are required by statute, there is no need to include them in the contract, but the fact-finder appointed by the New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission recommended in his September report that the Borough agree to the inclusion of both, even though the municipality must meet the requirements of the statutes in both cases.

No Contract Exists. Legally, the strike is illegal. It is against the law for public employees to strike. Union members say the Borough can't get an injunction to halt the strike because a judge won't issue an injunction where there is no contract.

Borough officials, who are reluctant to comment on their strategy, say they're talking about the question of illegality. "I'm not sure it's appropriate at this point, to take legal action," Mayor Cawley told reporters.

Mrs. van den Blink said the Borough wants "to settle this, as friends, across the table."

"I feel we have a history of good labor relations," Mayor Cawley commented, "although maybe that's a naive statement! I'm concerned about taxes, and the 'cap' implications. We think a fair agreement can be worked out. We've increased our offer from time to time in a spirit of compromise."

Because fewer than half a dozen of the men live in the Borough itself, they have no political clout. They cannot say "give me the nine percent or you don't get my vote." One official—not in the Borough—also observed that except for the skilled mechanics, most of them could be easily replaced by other men.

Meanwhile, the pickets walk slowly on Stockton Street, in front of, but distant from, Borough Hall. One of them exclaimed the other day, as he looked down at the sidewalk. "We hand-mixed the cement for this walk—640 feet of sidewalk, all laid by hand."

Head-on Two-Car Collision on Route 206 Fatal To 19-Year-Old Montgomery Township Resident

Princeton Township suffered its first auto fatality in a 1980 early Tuesday morning when a 19-year old man died as a result of injuries in a two-car collision on Route 206, 445 feet north of Arreton Road.

Rory C. Woods, 997 Route 206, Montgomery Township, was pronounced dead of multiple internal injuries at 2:20 a.m. at Princeton Medical Center. The victim, the driver of one car, was trapped inside his 1971 Pinto. Police said that the Rescue Squad, using the "Jaws of Life" machine, spent an hour trying to extricate him.

He was accompanied by his 20 year old brother, Daryl, who was treated for minor injuries at the Medical Center and released.

The second driver was identified as Jane K. Wilczek, slight down grade on a straight stretch of road. A passing motorist stopped at police headquarters to notify police.

"The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad arrived at the scene almost immediately," Sgt. Nini said, with a rescue truck and two ambulances. First aid treatment was started immediately, even though the victim was still trapped inside.

Woods Going North. The Woods car was traveling north and the other car was heading south. "It appears," commented Sgt. Nini, "that the collision occurred in the south bound lane."

The mishap took place in a 45-mile-an-hour zone on a

The two cars collided almost head-on on the driver's side. Miss Wilczek was driving a heavier car, police said, which helped to protect her from more serious injury.

There were two accident deaths in the Township in 1979, Sgt. Nini reported.

SUNDAY SALES ON TAP

Extra Half-Hour for Bars Sought. Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages will come before Township Committee this Wednesday at 8 in the form of an amendment permitting bars and taverns to open at 12:30 instead of at 1 p.m.

An Amendment permitting Township bars to be open on Sundays from noon to 9 as they are in the Borough was not enacted weeks ago on a 2-2 vote with Committee member Kate Litvack absent.

Mrs. Litvack is expected to be back in her seat this week, but Committeeman David Blair, who with Bill Cherry voted against the noon hour opening and who voted with Hugo Hoogenboom last year against opening the bars and taverns at all on Sundays, will not be present. Mr. Blair is recovering from what is described as "highly successful" multiple bypass heart surgery and will be absent from Township Hall for seven to eight weeks.

Other business includes the public hearing for an ordinance appropriating $28,600 for repairs and improvements to the Public Library and an emergency appropriation resolution to cover legal and planning consultant fees for master plan implementation.

Three ordinances will be introduced in addition to the one on Sunday bar sales. They include two amendments to the Land Use Ordinance, one having to do with creating a professional-office-residential zone at the corner of Valley Road and Harrison Street North, and the other having to do with cluster provisions in the two new residential zones in the northwest area of the Township.

John McGee, the Township's representative to the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority, has been asked to report to Committee on SB-SRA matters. In its work session, Committee will continue discussion of master plan ordinances relating to cluster, high density and office-research zones.

PLANNING THE TOWN

Board, in Two Meetings. Further reviews of high-density areas, office-research zones and the start of discussions on a new Township cluster ordinance will occupy the Planning Board at a special meeting Monday at 8 in Township Hall. Reports will be made by the Zoning Ordinance Revision Subcommittee — ZORC — of the board.

Allen Porter, board attorney, announced at last Monday's work session that the board had won a point in court. At the board's request, Superior Court has told the Medical Center at Princeton that it must appear first before Township Committee in its appeal of the Planning Board's denial of approval for construction of a storage shed at Princeton House.

The board asked the court to dismiss the Center's appeal on the grounds that the hospital had not exhausted the appeal process and the court agreed.

Next Tuesday, at the Planning Board's regular meeting, the agenda will include the office building on Bunn Drive proposed by Princeton Professional Park, the relocation of Commodities Corporation's dish antenna on Mt. Lucas Road, and a request by Princeton University to subdivide property at Harrison and Lake Lane. The plot encompasses 11 single-family houses. It was planned in 1954 with a complex legal structure which has proved "unworkable," a University spokesman told the board's work session; and subdivision seems advisable.

A re-hearing of Princeton Research Lands subdivision proposal has been postponed at the applicant's request, to November. Board members remarked Monday that Bryce Thompson, the developer, had previously complained that the board was slow in handling its projects.

STREET CLOSING?

"No" and "Yes." Not for Harvard, no, not even for Princeton, will, Borough Council agree to the closing of a piece of street. For the Arts Council's proposed "Street Eat," however, the answer is yes, if the Arts Council helps clean up.

Princetonians for the University who lives on the corner of Vandeventer and Spring, wanted Vandeventer closed for one hour between Nassau and Spring, after the Princeton-Harvard game October 25. Purpose: the marching of the two bands.

Police Chief Michael Carnevale told Council at Thursday's work session that there is a "tremendous volume" of traffic on Saturdays after a game. He pointed to the closing of Washington Road while the University band exits from '79 Hall. He said he had had many irate calls from motorists after the marathon two weeks ago.

"We must consider the entire community," he observed. And Council unanimously agreed to say "no" to Mr. Fox.

The Arts Council is considering a "Street Eat" party for three hours the afternoon of Sunday, October 12, and would like Witherspoon Street closed from Nassau to Hulfish. Restaurants would display — i.e., sell — their specialties.

If maintenance workers are still on strike, warned engineer George Olexa, it might be impossible unless volunteers were willing to handle barricades and do the clean-up.

Council also, at its work session, voted a $13,200 bond ordinance to repair the library roof, some exterior walls and the carpet.

CAR STRIKES TREE

Driver, 17, Charged. Anthony H. Pirone, 17, 340 Ewing Street, was charged with careless driving Monday afternoon, after his car struck a tree near Princeton High School.

Police said that Mr. Pirone had just turned from Franklin onto Moore Street when he lost control. His car crossed the Moore Street roadway and struck the tree.

He was taken by Ptl. Anthony Federico to Princeton Medical Center where he was treated for an abrasion of the lip and a headache. Police called the PHS maintenance crew to request that it remove the tree.

Seventy-year old Paul J. St. George, 812B Kingston Terrace, sustained lacerations of the forehead and contusions and abrasions when his car jumped a curb on Hamilton Avenue Friday night and struck a pole. His 1970 sedan was a total loss.

He told police that he must have blacked out, as he did not remember the accident. There were no witnesses and police made no charges. They did file a request that Mr. St. George be re-examined by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

A car driven by Stephen R. Remillard, 27, 28 Wilson Street, left the Route 206 roadway between Arretton Road and Ewing Street at 3:13 Friday morning and struck a utility pole, "totalling" Mr. Remillard's 1980 sedan.

Mr. Remillard told Ptl. Anthony Gaylord that a car going north was near the center line and he turned to avoid it, causing his car to skid.

Ptl. Gaylord noted in his report, however, that there were no skid marks nor any indication the car had turned, "but that the driver was inattentive or apparently asleep."

Mr. Remillard was treated at the Medical Center for facial injuries. There were no charges.

3 FIRE CALLS CHECKED
In Township. Township police last week answered three fire calls, none of which turned out to be serious.

A 3:23 call Sunday morning of oil smoke in one of the buildings at Tenacre off The Great Road turned out to be a malfunctioning oil burner. A fire in the chimney at 232 Edgerstone, reported at 6:15 Saturday night, was put out by one piece of fire apparatus, and a 9:55 call the same night on a furnace fire at 25 Gulick Road resulted from dust in the furnace catching fire and setting off a smoke alarm.

DRUG CHARGES LODGED

Following Separate Arrests.
Police charged suspects with drug violations in three separate arrests in the Borough last week.

Lewis McLeod, 21, of 290 Witherspoon Street, was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell, possession of marijuana,
resisting arrest and obstruction. He was later released on $25 bail.

McLeod, accompanied by a juvenile, was observed by University proctors around 10:30 in the evening, allegedly attempting to sell the drug near the Firestone Library.

Jeffrey A. Crane, 21, 44 Linden Lane, Plainsboro, had locked himself inside a women's rest room at the "Dinky" station on University Place, where he reportedly intended to sleep when police were called at 7:58 p.m.

Once he was removed, police found hashish in his possession and charged him with possession of five grams of the narcotic. After being questioned by Det. William Fitch at headquarters, he was later charged with the September 4 entry into a Leavitt Lane home where 35 record albums valued at $200 and a $50 silver fork were stolen.

When Kenneth McEwen was stopped on Franklin Street Thursday night by Ptl. Sutton for a motor vehicle violation, the officer charged him with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana, after he allegedly noted the drug in the suspect's pants' pocket.

McEwen, 55 of 15 Lytle Street, was issued a complaint summons and released.

Charged With Lewdness.
Herbert P. Korchin, 56, of Red Bank, was charged with open lewdness early last week, after police said that he was exposing himself near the Princeton University tennis courts. Det. Gerald Patterson was the complainant.

Korchin was released, pending his appearance this Wednesday in Borough court.

An East Windsor resident, Jeffrey R. Lowe, has been charged with assault and faces an October 15 hearing in Borough Court.

Deer Hunters Reminded

Section 13.6 of the Township code forbids the discharge of any firearm within the boundaries of the Township or across any part of the Township. In short, it is illegal to hunt with a firearm in the Township during deer season—or any time of the year.

Chief Frederick Porter said that he wished to remind all property owners in the Township to post their land with legal 'No Hunting' signs. The signs should also bear the signature of the owner, Chief Porter added, to validate them.

Chief Porter listed the 1980-81 deer season schedule as a reminder to property owners when to be on guard.

Sept. 27 - Nov. 6: bow and arrow for deer of either sex. It is legal to hunt in the Township with bow and arrow.

Dec. 8 - 13: 3-inch antlers, bow and arrow, shotgun and muzzle loader.

Dec. 15 - 16 - 18 - 19: Special Permit, one deer, either sex, muzzle loading rifle.

Dec. 17: Shotgun, one day only.

Jan. 3 - 17: deer, either sex, with long bow.

Police report that Lowe flagged down a car on Nassau Street, early Saturday night and when the driver, a Princeton resident, emerged, Lowe allegedly punched him in the nose. The two began to fight, prompting a 7:01 call to which Ptl. William Hunter and Ptl. Anthony Federico responded. Police were unable to offer an explanation for the assault.

GARAGE IS TARGET
Of Malicious Mischief. Someone entered a Prospect Avenue garage last week and did the following: throw eggs, cooking oil and syrup all over the interior; spread fertilizer and pine tar over the floor; poured fertilizer into the gas tank of a lawn mower and slashed the tires of three bicycles.

The Borough was busy cleaning up large red RU signs painted by Rutgers University students. The locations, police said, were the Nassau Hall university gate opposite Witherspoon Street, a private home at the corner of Charlton and William Streets, a William Street sidewalk, and street signs on Paul Robeson Place and Nassau at the corner of University Place.

Two parked cars were reported vandalized on Sunday within one hour of each other.

A Juniper Row resident told police that the steering column of his car had been broken in an attempt to steal his 1975 Ford from a lot near his apartment. Taken were a pair of eyeglasses valued at $102.

An hour earlier at noontime, a second Juniper Row resident reported an attempt to steal her 1972 Ford. Her car's steering column was also broken in the attempt. Police said in both instances entry has been gained by pulling up a door locking pin with an instrument.

While traveling on Paul Robeson Place between Bayard Lane and John Street, her car jumped the curb and struck a tree. It continued on another 36 feet and came to rest against a fence. Ms. McCaslin was also issued a summons for failing to have her license in her possession.

Still Life with Borough Building Permit

Art? In Borough Hall?

Warily, tentatively, like somebody seeing Picasso for the first time, Borough Council members decided Thursday—all but one of them, anyway—to let the Arts Council of Princeton hang original art in Borough Hall.

The 14-year-old building has interior walls of brick and nothing excites an artist like a blank wall, hence the Arts Council request. Council member Barbara Hill gave her colleagues a lively sales pitch in favor, but it took quite a lot of brush-work to convince them.

Charles Cornforth said, well, it seemed all right to him, so long as neither he nor Council had to be involved—choosing paintings, and such. Mrs. van den Blink said all she could see was trouble: theft, vandalism, inadvertent damage, possible expense. Police Chief Michael Carnevale used the occasion to plead for a new kind of door lock giving greater night security.

Pictures would be displayed on the wall across from the tax office, at the head of the stairs leading down to the engineer and the building and zoning offices. Works would hang from a rod (installed by the engineer's office) so the brick wouldn't be marred.

In a building normally decorated only with pictures reminding you to get rabies shots for your dog, or take your child to the health conference next month, art seems an interloper, somehow.

Yet a collage of parking tickets has a certain air of realism. And if you think Edward Hopper's harsh light evokes a chill alienation, think of the Zoning Board as it refuses you a side-yard variance. "The Newspaper Reader" outside is cast in bronze. A similar piece of realism might be "Taxpayer Examining Tax Bill," frozen at the moment of truth. And almost nothing is more surreal than Council, set about with problems financial, demographic and political, debating whether to hang a picture on a wall.

The study done by Venturi's consultant showed a deficiency of 240 long-term parking spaces, Mr. Olexa said. This deficiency is colored by the fact that people, who need long-term spaces (employees, chiefly) use short-term spaces and feed the meters.

The proposed plan shows, besides the Tulane Street parking garage, a garage on Chambers Street South (bounded by John, Chambers and Hulfish) for 550 cars. The Tulane garage will hold 240, if the smaller one is built, and 450, if the Borough can build the larger.

If parking is needed on Chambers North, the garage would be half underground, with a maximum of two levels. If parking isn't needed here, the Borough recommends that housing be built.

Mayor Cawley said this week that Council decision on garage size is two or three weeks away.

MEAT IS STOLEN

From Seminary Locker. Three-hundred thirty pounds of meat valued at $608.20 were stolen last week from a freezer locker in the kitchen area of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

Police said that someone used a bolt cutter to cut the locks and steal 160 pounds of bottom round, 80 pounds of top round and 90 pounds of pork loin. Entry was gained by first raising the screen of a basement window and then breaking the glass. The theft was discovered last Wednesday morning.

Two boxes of hamburger patties worth $30 were taken overnight from the kitchen of the Tower Club, 13 Prospect Avenue. The theft was reported Friday morning. Police said that the kitchen was entered through an unlocked window.

In another campus theft early in the week, a Princeton College Inn dormitory student told police that someone had stolen her 14K gold wristwatch valued at $33 during a 90-

Planning Board Hours

The Planning Board, its head barely visible above a sea of paperwork, most of it involving preparation for lawsuits, announced this week that it is shortening its public office hours.

Starting Monday, the office in the Valley Road Building will be open only from noon until 4. "Open" means not only the door but the telephone as well.

No telephone calls will be answered until noon and no one will be admitted to the office until then. Exceptions are members of the board itself and municipal officials.

The one hour at the end of the day, before the 5 p.m. closing, and the three morning hours, will give the staff four undisturbed hours each day for paperwork and catching up.

minute period she was away from her room.

There were four entries reported by Borough police but in each instance nothing was taken.

A residence and the Princeton Stained Glass store, both on Spring Street, were entered between 7:45 p.m. and 10:30 a.m. last week by forcing open rear doors. A Madison Street resident discovered that a door to a studio over a garage had been pried open, and a pane of glass near a door lock was broken to enter a Wiggins Street apartment. Police report that two bedrooms were searched but nothing is missing.

TOWNHOUSES?

Zoning Board to Decide. Benedict Yedlin's application for a use variance to build 12 clustered townhouses off the northern reaches of Mt. Lucas Road will continue before the Township Zoning Board in a special session at 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 13. The board will meet out of town, so to speak, in the lounge of Borough Hall.

The board heard the start of Mr. Yedlin's presentation at its last meeting last Wednesday. It is expected that a final decision will be made at the special meeting.

The board will also consider the request of Collins Development Corporation for permission to build a smaller detention basin on the Constitution Hill development site.

RAPE IS TOPIC

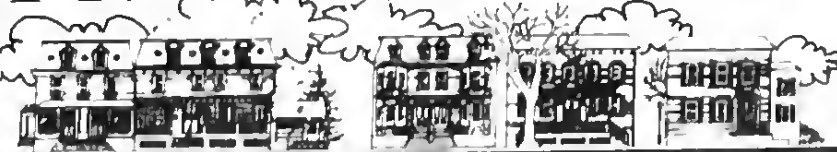

Of YWCA Program. The Princeton YWCA will explore the myths and facts of rape in "Rape: Another Conspiracy" Monday, October 6, from 7:30 to 10 at the YM-YWCA Building, Paul Robeson Place.

Debbi Schaubman of the New Brunswick Women's Crisis Center will lead the meeting which will include the viewing of the film, "Rape Culture." No fee will be charged, but advance registration is required.

Rape and the fear of rape affects women of all ages, and statistics show that in 80 percent of all rapes, the victim is acquainted with her attacker. The discussion group aims to enable women to express their fears and learn how to handle these fears better. It will also include information on prevention, self-defense and medical and legal procedures.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Volunteers have a long and honored tradition in this country and in Princeton their role has been—and is—a particularly vital one. TOWN TOPICS will carry, on a continuing basis, a "Help Wanted" column listing the various organizations in town that need volunteers.

If your organization could use volunteers, please let us know. Follow the style below and mail the facts to TOWN TOPICS, Box 664, Princeton.

TEACH NEW MOTHERS.

About infant safety-seats for cars. You'll visit the hospital's maternity wing, show slides of approved seats, explain to new mothers how important these seats are. One month later, you make follow-up telephone calls to new mothers. One day a week, 12:30-2, Medical Center at Princeton. Call 734-4589.

VISIT THE ELDERLY. Older "Merwick" residents need help remembering where they are, what year it is, even who they are -- and you can help, in a special "reality orientation" program. Or, just visit with residents, ask their needs, chat with them, maybe help with simple crafts. It's the human contact that counts. Call 723-4589.

STEP INTO HISTORY. Ever been inside "Morven," the Governor's mansion? The Historical Society of Princeton needs guides to show people around "Morven," the Society's own Bainbridge House, and this historic community as well. Training sessions: four October Mondays, starting October 6 (10-noon) at Bainbridge House, next to the Garden Theatre. You'll be asked to give two hours a week.

Urgently needed: an experienced person to head the society's fund drive. You would develop plans, work with Society officers and various committees, develop strategies, organize the drive and follow through.

You needn't be a member of the Historical Society to be a guide or a volunteer, but of course you'd be welcome if you decided to join ($12.50 a year). Call 921-6748 between 9 and 4, week-days.

ENHANCE THE ENVIRONMENT. A new "hands-on" museum for adults and children is planned for the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association headquarters in Pennington, and you can help set it up. The SBMWA also wants to reclaim, with wild flowers, etc., the grazing areas of its farmland property -- a long-term project -- and needs help from volunteers willing to work at maintaining the marked trails. Trail guides are also needed, when school and club groups visit the headquarters.

If you're a collector of fossils, skilled at bird-watching, know about trees and plants or have any other outdoor skill, the SBMWA could use you to give a program. And if you like to paint -- For any of these, call 737-3735, weekdays between 9 and 4.

KEEP UP YOUR TYPING SKILL. The Mercer County Chapter of the American Diabetes Association needs somebody to type the Chapter news-letter once a month. Takes about three hours. The Association provides typewriter, stencils and correction fluid -- you provide skill.

They will deliver the copy and pick up your finished product. Call 609-392-1808, or write the Association, c/o Mercer Medical Center, 446 Bellevue Avenue, Trenton, 08607.

HELP THE TOWNSHIP. Two volunteer boards in Princeton Township have openings. The Traffic Safety Committee sets up criteria for recommending changes in speed limits, reviews subdivision applications to see whether new roads would be safe for cars and pedestrians, and performs other functions along these lines. It meets once a month in the mornings. The Construction Board of Appeals meets infrequently -- maybe only once a year, depending on appeals. You must have technical construction knowledge, and you cannot be an architect practicing in Princeton.

For both, write your qualifications to Princeton Township Committee, Township Hall, Princeton.

WAIVER GRANTED

For Witherspoon Parking. Owners of the building at 32-36 Witherspoon were granted permission by the Borough Zoning Board last week to satisfy an 11-space parking requirement either in a public lot or by monthly parking rights in the Palmer Square North parking lot.

The owners, Nancy Altman and Enid Gold, plan to appeal the Planning Board's denial of permission to convert the second and third floors of the three-story building from apartments to offices. Appeal will probably be to Superior Court, said the applicant's attorney Alan Wallack, this week, although that depends, he explained, on the nature of the board's denial when findings of fact have been completed. The owners could also appeal to Borough Council.

Robert Cook was once again denied permission to add apartments to the third floor of his 236 Nassau Building. He had been refused before by the Zoning Board when he applied under another section of the ordinance.

A request by Mary Olivier, 28 Markham, for side-yard variance to build a garage, was granted. La Cuisine received approval for a black-board sign outside its premises at 183C Nassau.

BOOK SALE PLANNED

At Day School. The annual Princeton Day School Book Fair will be held on Tuesday, October 7, through Thursday, October 9, from 10 to 4 at the Ann Reid Art Gallery. The sale will also continue during the Back-To-School Program for the Middle School at 7:45 on Tuesday evening, October 7, and the Back-To-School Program for the Lower School on Thursday, October 9, at 7:45.

Titles Unlimited will provide the books, and stock will be available upon purchase. There will be books for all ages, including old favorites and current best sellers, as well as paperback and hardcover books. Bookplates for identification will also be sold, and a wide variety of 1980-81 calendars will be offered. New this year will be a large selection of records and tapes for teenagers.

Any parent, friend or child who would like to make a donation of a book or books to the school library can do so at the Book Fair. A bookplate with the donor's name will be placed in the front of the book. The librarians at Princeton Day School will supply a list of books the library would like to have donated.

The proceeds from the book fair will be used to acquire additional books for the Princeton Day School Library.

COURSES OFFERED

In South Brunswick. The South Brunswick Public Library will offer several courses this fall.

They include Calligraphy for beginners on Wednesdays at 7:30, beginning this Wednesday; Basic Astronomy on Fridays at 7:30, beginning October 24, and Knitting for Beginners on Mondays at 7:30, beginning October 27.

Pre-registration is required for each course. There will be a fee of $6 for the astronomy course only. To register call the Library at (201) 821-8224.

$3.25 Million to University Makes Possible Creation of Three New Residential Colleges

Gifts totaling $3.25 million have been made to Princeton University, President William G. Bowen announced on Sunday. He also reported, after meetings of the University's trustees last week, that trustees have given names to the three new residential colleges that are being created in line with recommendations made last year.

The gifts support major redevelopment and restoration of the Gothic northwest corner of the Princeton campus, bounded by Nassau Street and University Place.

The family of the late John D. Rockefeller III, who graduated from Princeton in 1929, has given $1.5 million which will be added to the $5 million gift announced last April from Laurance S. Rockefeller, a 1932 graduate.

The Bunbury Company, Inc., has contributed $1.75 million toward development of a residential college named for Dean Mathey, a member of the class of 1912, and a Princeton resident. He died in 1972 at the age of 81. The Bunbury Company is a foundation, established under Mr. Mathey's will, which makes various grants.

Third at Southern End. Trustees have decided to name two of the colleges Mathey College and Rockefeller College. Adjacent to each other, along Nassau and University Place, they will be composed of existing dormitories and dining halls, and will be linked by Madison Hall which will be converted into a library.

The third college, Butler College, will be at the southern end of the campus and will include the five dormitories known collectively as "New New Quad." A new social and dining center will be built there, made possible by a gift of land, valued substantially in excess of $3 million, presented to the University last winter by Lee D. Butler, a member of the Class of 1922, and his wife, Margaret.

When completed, the three new colleges, with existing Woodrow Wilson and Princeton Inn colleges, will house all Princeton freshmen and sophomores, and some juniors and seniors. Architectural plans are being developed by Venturi, Rauch and Scott Brown of Philadelphia.

In announcing the naming of the colleges, President Bowen paid tribute to "the extraordinary generosity which has made it possible to develop these three new colleges in such a relatively brief period of time. The gifts will go a long way toward bringing to fruition the important proposals developed over recent years by the trustees and the campus-based Committee on Undergraduate Residential Life."

Monday Last Day to Register to Vote Nov. 4

REGISTER! Monday is the deadline, if you've changed your address or aren't already a registered voter. Top: Martha Schlosstein registers at Borough Hall with Deputy Clerk Teresa Cupples. Below: Arlene Scozzaro (center) makes a change of address at Township Hall with Deputy Clerks Mitzie Fiumenero (left) and Joanne Just.

The deadline for registering to vote November 4 is this coming Monday, October 6. You may register in either Borough or Township halls, depending on which community you live in, or you may mail in the form printed in TOWN TOPICS on September 17, page 10. Additional copies may be obtained in person at 4 Mercer Street.

Municipal buildings are open from 9-5 weekdays. Evening registration will be this Thursday and Friday and next Monday. Both municipal buildings will be open until 9 p.m. If you have questions, you may call Borough Hall (924-3119) or Township Hall (924-5749) or the League of Women Voters of New Jersey, 800-792-8836.

You must be a United States citizen, a resident of the county (Mercer County, in the case of Princeton) for at least 30 days, and 18 years old by November 4.

The League has a list of commonly-asked questions, with their answers:

Q. I got married and changed my name since I last voted. Do I have to re-register?
A. Yes.

Q. I'm registered, but I'm in college and away from home election day. How can I vote?
A. Ask your parents to mail you an absentee ballot application. Fill it out and return it to your county clerk. If you are in Princeton, the application must be in the office of the Mercer County clerk by October 28. In New Jersey, students have a choice: they may vote in the community where they attend college, or by absentee from their home communities.

A. I'm ashamed to say I haven't voted for ten years. Am I still registered?
Q. No. You must re-register if you do not vote for four successive years.

Q. We've moved since the last election, but we're still in the same New Jersey county. Must we re-register?
A. If you're still in the same county, you must notify your municipal clerk or the County Commissioner of Registration of your change of address. If you move to another county, you must re-register.

Q. I'm expecting my baby in late October and may be in the hospital on election day. Is there any way I can vote, if all this happens at the last minute?
A. Yes. You may send your husband, or anybody else you designate as your messenger, with written authorization to the office of the county clerk to obtain a ballot and return it to the county clerk's office.

Monday, October 6, at 8, will be a play from Family Service's Plays for Living series, called "The Green Blackboard." It focuses on decision-making around school-related issues and is directed by Diana Crane.

On October 27, there will be

a screening of "Men's Lives," a film about the father-son relationship. Han van den Blink, director of education at Trinity Counseling Service, will lead a discussion entitled "Our Families Evolving" on November 17, exploring families past and present in an attempt to understand the links between them.

All sessions will provide an opportunity for small group discussion. Advance registration by mail is suggested. The entire series is $5 per person or $7.50 per couple. Individual sessions are $2 per person.

Checks payable to the Unitarian Church of Princeton may be sent to "Perspectives on Parenting." The Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road. For further information call Linda Meisel, 924-2098, Kathie Miller, 924-6579, or Cynthia Ward, 924-1604.

PARENTS INVITED

To Join Resource Center. The Family Resource Infant Center, a non-profit parent education group and support program located in the Princeton United Methodist Church, is beginning its fall program.

Parents of young children from birth through three years old are invited to join. The Center provides a relaxed atmosphere in which to meet other parents and share experiences while also enjoying a creative play environment with the child.

The Center offers a wide range of mother discussion groups, including living with a baby, health and safety, nutrition and discipline. Courses for children 18 months through three years include cooking, art, dance and movement. Courses meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and many start in October.

Members are also invited to attend workshops on parent-child separation, forming creative play groups and children's emerging sexuality on Wednesday mornings. The Center is open Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 2. For more information call 924-2167 or drop by the Center during those hours.

Jeffra Nandan is the director.

The Medical Center Corner

John W. Kauffman, President

The Princeton Hospital changed its name to The Medical Center at Princeton in 1972, to better describe the services available to the community. The word hospital always denoted an acute institution for sick people.

As the Princeton Hospital expanded its services to include primary as well as emergency care through its physicians' offices and Emergency Department, enlarging Merwick to include rehabilitation medicine and extended care as well as nursing home care, establishing a mental health unit at Princeton House, merging with the Visiting Nurse Association and starting a comprehensive home care program within its Department of Community Health Services, and becoming a Core teaching hospital affiliated with Rutgers Medical School, the name Princeton Hospital no longer applied.

The concept of total health care rather than one segment to better serve the needs of the community and contain costs, has been a guiding philosophy of the Trustees since the early fifties. The results over the years we believe have more than proven the correctness of this direction.

The problems in many communities where extended care, rehabilitation, home care and mental health are not available, are substantial. The newest addition, "Supportive Care" which is a type of hospice program organized within our Department of Community Health Services, is already receiving community participation.

As "wellness" becomes a way of life in the future, the Medical Center and its Medical and Dental Staff in cooperation with other community agencies, will strive to make wellness become a reality. Our newest partner in this venture is the Princeton YMCA.

Changing lifestyles in smoking, eating, exercise and environment are not easy, but can be accomplished. Our motivation in total health care is not to build larger facilities, in fact the carefully planned diversification has resulted in the opposite.

Our planning for the future will certainly continue to emphasize diversification, meeting the challenges of the times, and this is the objective of the Trustees. The programs and scope of services available at The Medical Center at Princeton today, are one of a kind in New Jersey and one of the few in the country.

FALL FOLIAGE: This Year, A Case of the "Blahs"? with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Although theories abound on the subject of why leaves turn brilliant color come Autumn, most experts do agree that this year's chances are poor that we will experience the usual brilliant parade of color.

Contrary to popular belief, frost is not the reason for the change of color in leaves. Normally, when days are sunny and warm and nights have dropped into the 40's, colors are brilliant. However, one further essential is sufficient rainfall! The drought we have suffered this summer has robbed leaves of most of the anthocyanin pigments which produce the beautiful crimsons, scarlets and oranges. As a result, foliage this year will probably have more yellow dominant, and therefore a duller look in general.

Fall foliage will be thinner, too. So many of our drought-and-heat-stricken trees were forced to drop great numbers of tired, thirsty leaves weeks ahead of time.

In certain well-mulched (and therefore moist) soil areas locally we can still look for a good show from Red Maple, White and Black Oaks, Yellowwood, and some Ash.

In the majority of the Princeton area though, drought will tone down the usual orange, crimson and scarlet of the Sugar Maples, and the burgundy of the Sweet Gums. Those trees which are most severely affected by the drought are (in order of most to least affected) Elm, London Plane, Red Maple, Sycamore, Beech, Birch, Walnut, Ash, Dogwood, Tulip and Tulip Poplar. Oaks are the toughest, and therefore least affected, of all.

Remember WOODWINDS is always happy to answer any questions you may have on your valuable trees and shrubs and the many problems they have faced this year! Call us at 294-1559.

MAILBOX

First Aid Unit Invaluable.

To the Editor of Town Topics: The family of Robert G. Donald would like to express sincere appreciation to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad for transporting him from the University of Vermont Medical Center to his home in Princeton.

Once again we realize what a valuable organization this volunteer unit is to the residents of Princeton. While vacationing in Vermont, our father was taken ill and open heart surgery was performed at the Medical Center of the University of Vermont. Thanks to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, he was able to leave the hospital and continue recuperation at his home in Princeton.

We sincerely hope that you will join us in financially supporting this most valuable organization.

The Robert Donald Family

"need of repairs. Since we all get the mail about the same time, we all seemed to be out there at the same time inspecting our sidewalks. The Borough has planted Norway maples between our sidewalks and the street. Wherever there was damage, it was where the Norway maple roots had heaved up our sidewalks.

Something seems wrong somewhere. We have no say in what kind of trees are planted next to our sidewalk. Most people know that Norway maples grow to be enormous trees, and their roots are enormous too, and close to the surface.

I called the office of the Borough Engineer to discuss the problem. They sent a polite young man around, who explained that his office was just enforcing the law; that in order to make changes, I would have to go higher up -- to the Borough Council.

As things stand now, I have to get the sidewalk fixed within 30 days from the time of my getting the notice. But first I have to pay $2 for a permit, then I have to get somebody to lift up or demolish the sidewalk, then the Borough Engineer will come and cut the roots, then the sidewalk repair man or crew can come back and fix the sidewalk, no doubt at a high cost. Then, some years from now, the roots will grow large again and heave up the sidewalk, and we will be "hit" by another notice from the Borough Engineer.

It seems like a large task to be able to influence the lawmakers, but perhaps it would be possible to get more knowledgeable people to decide what trees the Borough should plant.

Salute to an Anglophile.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I read Barbara Johnson's article on Mrs. Thomas J. Wertenbaker in your issue of July 9 with interest, and I would be grateful if you would allow me space to pay tribute to her work on behalf of people from the British Commonwealth.

Both Mrs. Wertenbaker and the late Professor Wertenbaker worked unselfishly for Great Britain's cause from September, 1939. In 1944, Prof. Wertenbaker felt that the best

To the Editor:

The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad has just kicked off a vigorous campaign for more funds (TOWN TOPICS, Sept. 24).

service which he could render would be to take up the Harmsworth Professorship in American History to which he had been appointed in 1939, and so he came over to partake of the discomforts of wartime Oxford. It showed equal courage on Mrs. Wertenbaker's part when she decided to join him.

After the war, they continued their work, and since the Professor's death, Mrs. Wertenbaker has carried on alone both in and outside the scope of the English Speaking Union. She has smoothed the paths of the many people from the Commonwealth who have passed through Princeton, and by innumerable kindnesses, she has given a visible demonstration of that hospitality for which the people of the United States are justly renowned.

Certainly she has contributed greatly to a better understanding between the peoples of the Commonwealth and the people of the United States.

We are most grateful to her and indeed to very many others for all that they have done for us.

PRINCETON CLOTHING
Celebrating 60th Year.
Witherspoon Street is constantly changing as stores close and new stores open, but the Princeton Clothing Company has steadfastly remained in the same location for 60 years, offering conservative men's clothing for business or campus at moderate prices, with exemplary personal service.

As always, the carefully selected stock reflects Princeton tastes in business suits and tuxedos, sports jackets and slacks, sweaters and jeans, topcoats, raincoats and jackets, casual or dress shirts, and men's furnishings. All merchandise is purchased in coordinating colors for easier customer selection.

The business was established in 1920 by Abraham Brown and Samuel Rosenthal. When Mr. Rosenthal retired, Abraham's son, Benjamin, became his partner and his younger son, Marvin, began working as a salesman and buyer in the store. When their father died, the two brothers began a partnership that lasted for 18 years.

This past January, Ben retired and Marvin became the store's owner. Marvin's daughter, Lisa, the third generation of the original family, is now taking a prominent part in the business as buyer and manager of the furnishings department.

Suits. The wide selection of business suits includes two- and three-button models, such as a suit in navy hopsacking, pin-stripe suits in gray or blue shades, and wool or polyester-wool blends, and a glen plaid suit in gray polyester wool sharkskin — all priced at $205. A narrow wale corduroy suit pants, vest and jacket — in light green, camel or brown, is $95.

Tuxedos and cutaways — in classic or contemporary styles — can be purchased or rented in sizes 4 to 54 long. Alterations are made without charge by Frank Porcario, the store's experienced tailor.

Sports Coats. Traditional sports coats are Shetland wool in barleycorn or herringbone patterns, $115; a cheviot tick-weave, $100; and hand-woven Harris tweeds, $155. Classic navy blazers, dacron and wool, or 100 per cent wool, are $115. Wide wale corduroy sports coats, 100 per cent cotton, in light green, camel or brown, are $57.50.

Slacks. The store carries slacks in a wide range of styles and fabrics. Wool flannel dress slacks are $45, dressy wool-look flannel slacks — a blend of dacron and orlon — $23, and a trouser of texturized polyester, by Levi, with a comfortable action waistline, is also $23.

Levi denim blue jeans and Levi corduroy jeans are also available. Corduroy slacks in basic and bright colors are $25-$30 and wool trousers in authentic tartan patterns are $47.50.

Sweaters. Classic sweaters — 70 per cent Shetland wool, 30 per cent dacron — in crew neck or V neck styles, are shown in soft heathery colors, $21. Other favorites include an orlon cable-knit in a crew neck style — gray, blue, rust — $29, a beige coat sweater with shawl collar and cable-knit design, $35, and a gray V-neck Shetland - Dacron cardigan, $26.

Sleeveless vest sweaters are $16 for a pullover style; $18 for a button front. All are machine washable and dryable and made by Jantzen.

Outerwear. A handsome stadium coat, lightweight and exceptionally warm, has a quilted insulated lining, water-repellant, windproof heide poplin shell, detachable hood with acrylic pile lining, and zipper and toggle closings, $100.

Zip-front jackets include an unlined, water-repellant golf type windbreaker, $32.50, a "three-way knit" with polyester-cotton shell and insulated lining by Field and Stream, $50, and a ski jacket by Woolrich with navy nylon shell and quilted polyester-filled lining, $43.

Woolrich also makes a three-quarter length car coat with a camel shell lined with dark brown orlon pile, $90. Designer John Weitz has produced a classic top coat for dress wear in brown or gray wool herringbone with set-in sleeves and slash pockets, $120.

A traditionally styled raincoat in light tan or British tan polyester-cotton has a fly front, and zip-out lining of acrylic pile and is machine washable, $70. A trench style raincoat is also available.

Shirts. Dress shirts are shown in 100 per cent cotton, cotton-polyester, or oxford cloth from Van Heusen and Arrow, in ecru, light blue, pink, yellow, tan or white and a variety of stripes, $14-$21. Sport shirts are cotton flannel in authentic clan plaids, $16, velours in a variety of styles and colors, $26-$28, and washable wool and polyester plaids in muted colors, $25.

Super suede shirts — in fall colors — wash beautifully, $20. Duofold knit turtlenecks in polyester - cotton and 16 popular colors are $13.50, and women wear them too.

Men's Furnishings. Best selling socks at Princeton Clothing are a fisherman's knit in 100 per cent nylon with an unconditional 5-year guarantee, $2.50 per pair. Ties are regimental stripes, wool Shetlands, knits, club ties, silk-look paisleys and foulards, and pure silk paisleys in beautiful colors or silk shantung stripes.

Belts include a braided style with leather buckle — in brown, black, navy, $9, a leather belt that reverses from black to brown, $15, and Oleg Cassini designer belts in black, tan or brown leather, with signature belt buckles, $18 - $20. The store also carries dress felt hats by Stetson, water-repellant tweed hats by London Fog, wool caps in plaids, tweeds or camel hair and rainhats and caps in neutral shades.

Princeton Clothing Company is 17 Witherspoon Street. Store hours are 9-5:30, Monday through Saturday. Phone 924-0704.

The shop's unique interior provides a background of off-white walls and dark brown carpeting for counters and display cases of raw ripped pine lined with cork.

The jewelry is displayed on rocks, cross sections of logs, or dogwood branches and the rough natural textures make an unexpected and pleasing contrast to the polished, sparkling jewelry. Gift wrapping — brown plush bags with a silver logo and brown boxes tied with a silver cord extend the color scheme.

Village Silver of Princeton is the third jewelry shop in a family-owned business initiated by Tina Laraia; two other shops are located in Danbury, Connecticut and Yonkers, New York. Marie and Ed Menendez, her daughter and son-in-law are owners of the Princeton store, but Mrs. Laraia does the buying, selecting her merchandise from about 80 sources.

Sterling Silver Jewelry. Rings, pendants, bracelets and earrings are available in every imaginable style, from simple classic designs to very ornate presentations, some in matching sets.

The most spectacular pieces are those set with colorful gemstones — pink rhodochrosite, green malachite, blue sodalite, black onyx, amethysts, opals, tiger eyes, pearls and fascinating picture jasper that looks like miniature desert landscapes. Necklaces include chains with fresh water pearls, and chokers or neck rings of solid sterling silver.

The extensive collection of sterling silver jewelry also contains hand-crafted "artists' pieces" — necklaces reminiscent of turn-of-the-century designs, showing birds, clusters of flowers or abstract forms.

Reproductions of antique rings and pendants enriched with marcasite and set with black onyx or antique crystal are popular choices. Sterling silver jewelry imported from countries around the world includes exquisite enamel-on-silver earrings with blue oriental motifs and exotic jewelry of carved cinnabar from Mainland China.

PENDANTS, BRACELETS AND NECKLACES are part of the large selection of sterling silver jewelry found at Village Silver, a new jewelry shop opened by Ed Menendez and his wife, Marie. Their jewelry includes handcrafted pieces by Princeton area artisans, turquoise and silver Indian jewelry, exotic jewelry from foreign lands and antique reproductions.

An entire display case is devoted to sterling silver charms and pendants such as mythological beasts — unicorns, dragons and Pegasus; Western accents — cowboy boots, horses, spurs; musical themes — notes, clefs, instruments; occupational emblems — tools, planes, an artist's palette; and sports symbols — skis, sailboats and tennis racquets. Other charms are butterflies, crosses, lockets, art nouveau designs and "Princeton" tee shirts. Charm holders and bracelets are also available.

Personalized Jewelry. Village Silver has many sterling silver objects and jewelry that can be personalized with an initial, a monogram, or a message — key holders, money clips, cuff links and tie tacks, or pen knives, thimbles, shot glasses, bud vases or letter openers. Chain necklaces and bracelets can display complete names in block letters.

Jewelry for Children. The shop carries a variety of sterling silver rings, earrings, bracelets and necklaces for children. A tiny, edged silver ring is $1.50, link bracelets are $2.50 up.

Silver earrings — hearts, turtles, shells, crosses, or small flowers with turquoise centers, butterflies in turquoise and coral, and turquoise birds — are mostly under $10. Chain necklaces with pendants of hearts, keys, flowers, are also available.

Turquoise and Silver. An impressive selection of turquoise and silver jewelry handcrafted by Indians of the Southwest features a gorgeous Zuni sun face necklace set with turquoise, coral, jet and tortoise shell; a necklace of turquoise nuggets is also very lovely.

Bracelets include a cuff style with three flowers in Zuni needlepoint turquoise, a contemporary Navaho design showing turquoise first set in 14k gold, then mounted on sterling silver, and a slender bracelet inlaid with turquoise and coral.

Bola ties display turquoise and silver slides by Navaho and Hopi Indians. Turquoise also ornaments silver watch bracelets, crosses, charms or pendants.

Gold Jewelry. Selected items in 14k gold are necklaces, bracelets, pendants, earrings, charms and rings, such as the dainty gold wire rings set with tiny gemstones, so appealing to young women. Gold earrings are hoops, dangles, and studs with many design variations.

Medallions with graceful script initials can be worn as charms or pendants and charm holders display one or more charms on a neckring or chain. Attractive bead necklaces of tiger eye, onyx, garnet or fresh water pearls, interspersed with beads of gold, are shown with matching bead bracelets.

Village Silver is 39 Witherspoon Street. Store hours are 10-5:30 Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, 10-5:30 Thursday and Friday, and 10-5:30 Saturday. Phone 924-5990.

The LANDAU Philosophy

(It's Really Quite Simple)

PART V

The Problem: Defective Merchandise

You can buy a $10 pen, $25 tie, $200 blazer, $500 refrigerator, or a $2000 car today and have something go wrong with it tomorrow. Who's at fault? No one really. The cost of old-fashioned manufacturer quality control (individually inspecting every product prior to shipment) is so high these days that for most products, it is non-existent. What then should be done when you purchase an item which doesn't perform up to expectations?

The Landau Solution: If we sell you something, your satisfaction is our responsibility.

Retail stores historically returned all faulty merchandise to the manufacturer. Today, however, many manufacturers have seasonal policies about returning merchandise (i.e. winter merchandise must be returned before the end of winter). Others insist that merchandise be inspected upon arrival at the store and, if defects are found, require notification within ten days. Many will not accept returns ninety days after their original shipment. We refuse to deal with any of these companies who don't stand behind their products. To these fair weather manufacturers, we say, "Goody bye!"

Landau's sells classic quality sportswear that is made to last. If you buy a Sero oxford shirt (or any other item) from us in September, and you are disappointed with it in January, bring it back. We will give you another shirt. More importantly, if the same problem reoccurs with other customers, we will make sure we discuss the situation with Sero to make them aware of it. The only way for us to combat rising prices is to increase a product's value by improving quality without involving you, the customer, in the hassle. That is our goal, plain and simple.

OPENING PLANNED

For Constitution Hill. Constitution Hill, a condominium community that combines elegant living, history, and a rural setting atop the highest hill in Princeton, will celebrate its official opening on Saturday. On view will be luxury apartments in the restored Morgan mansion and a fully furnished model residence -- one of 52 individual and semi-detached houses clustered on the large estate.

Originally owned by William Penn, the land was acquired in the late 1700's by the Stockton family, one of whom, Richard, was to become a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Constitution Hill is so named because it is thought that the first State Constitution of New Jersey was signed in the Stockton farmhouse. George Washington took refuge there during his retreat from New Brunswick in 1776, and the decisive Battle of Princeton was fought a mile south of the Stockton home.

In 1897 Junius Spencer Morgan, nephew of financier J. Pierpont Morgan, purchased the property. A huge Jacobean Tudor country house was built, where the Morgans entertained well-known figures in industry, the arts, and society.

The estate remained in the Morgan family through the decades until recently when J.P.'s great-great nephew, architect Perry Morgan sought to preserve the mansion and the integrity of the land in the face of modern day taxes and maintenance costs. He approached Arthur Collins, president of Collins Development Corporation of Greenwich, Conn., to develop the project. Mr. Morgan was retained as architect.

According to Jim Harvie, vice-president of Collins Development and managing partner of the project, Constitution Hill is an example of good land planning. Not only has an historic mansion been restored and returned to good use, but the open fields that give the estate its character have been preserved. This was achieved by using the concept of "zero lot line" zoning that permits houses to be clustered very closely together, though the overall density remains the same.

The result is 60 single-family residences on 47 acres. Sixty percent of the estate's acreage has been preserved in cornfields, wooded acres, lawns and the mansion's formal garden. New plantings, a swimming pool, a tennis court and a lake are being added.

FARE INCREASE ASKED

For Bus Routes. Suburban Transit Corporation, has filed for a nine percent fare increase with the Interstate Commerce Commission. The request asks for raises when necessary to make the fare end in a zero or a five.

Suburban, which plies between Princeton and New York, now charges $6.30 for the round trip. Rounded upward, the new fare would be $6.90. Suburban's last fare increase was October 1, 1979. The firm has asked for the new fare to be effective October 12, 1980. The carrier says that fare increases are necessary because of increased costs in labor, materials, supplies, utilities and insurance.

Suburban drivers were out all last week on strike. The strike, which began September 22, was settled over the weekend.

THIS IS NOT A SIGN: That's what the Borough Zoning Board decided by a 4-2 vote last Thursday. Nassau Savings and Loan may now take its sign—pardon, its time-temperature indicator—to the Environmental Design Review Committee, which it plans to do on October 13. Because a picture of the thermometer has been superimposed on a sketch of the new building, there appears to be some distortion. Actually, the indicator will be on a post in the courtyard, not on the side of the building. The "sign" has 16-inch-high numerals and is double-faced so you can see it coming and going. Reflecting discs record time and temperature, eliminating the need for light bulbs.

Pastor Edward Morgan of Westerly Road Church Gives Last Sermon after 24 Years of Service

The Rev. Edward Morgan preached his last sermon as pastor of the Westerly Road Church last Sunday. After 24 years, Pastor Morgan is retiring and will move with his wife to Crestwood, a retirement village near Toms River. A successor is expected by the first of the year.

Pastor Morgan was born in Summit, where his father, Minot C. Morgan, a distinguished Presbyterian minister and trustee of Princeton Seminary, was then pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church. The elder Mr. Morgan was born at 36 Mercer Street, where his oldest son, Minot (Mike) C. Morgan Jr., longtime business manager of the Institute for Advanced Study, later lived until shortly before his death. A younger brother, Henry, is a retired Presbyterian minister who taught music at Princeton and at Vassar.

A graduate of Princeton University, Class of 1938, from which his brothers were also graduated, Edward Morgan taught at the Salisbury, Conn., School before entering Seminary. He was ordained in Greenwich, Conn., where his father was a pastor, and became an assistant to Dr. Earl Douglas at the Summit Presbyterian Church in Germantown, Pa. (Dr. Douglas retired to Princeton and lived on Armour Road before his death.)

In 1945 he was called to the First Presbyterian Church in Springfield, Pa., where he spent seven years until, as he puts it, he "felt the Lord calling us to serve an independent type ministry rather than with the Presbyterian Church." From 1953-56 Mr. Morgan was pastor of Grace Church in Roanoke, Va., an "un-denominational" church.

Bible Oriented. Asked to elaborate on the move away from the Presbyterian denomination, Mr. Morgan replies that he "felt more freedom to teach the Scriptures, and preach the Gospel which God had called us to." There were other ramifications, he said, such as the role of mission in the church. "It was a matter of conviction."

In 1956 he came to Princeton in response to the invitation from a group of people who wanted to establish this type of church. The late W. Butler Harris and his two sisters, Miss Dorothy and Miss Helen Harris, donated property on Westerly Road — at that time not cut through to Elm Road — for a church, and, with Mrs. Evelyn Lipp and William G. Stellenwerf Jr., became the first trustees of the newly incorporated church.

Funds were raised by the 22 charter members to erect a pre-fab chapel and manse. In 1958 a Sunday School wing was added, and two more additions followed in later years. The church grew to more than 200 members.

Westerly Road Church describes itself as an evangelical, undenominational church, and the sign in front proclaims "That in All Things Christ Might Have The Preeminence" (Colossians 1:18). "We believe in fundamentals, an adherence to what we believe the Word of God teaches about itself and the Lord," Mr. Morgan states. "Those who have gathered here believe some denominations have drifted from their moorings."

Daughter Church. As the church grew to 250 members, plans were drawn up for a larger sanctuary. But the Township Zoning Board denied the necessary parking variance, and the church decided to "multiply by dividing." Four of the elders and one-fifth of the congregation became the core of the Windsor Chapel, where David Morgan is pastor.

"My younger son became pastor of our daughter church," says the elder Morgan with quiet satisfaction.

RELIGION In Princeton

Mission. Westerly Road Church takes particular pride in its mission efforts. More than 50 percent of all undesignated funds received has always gone to mission, with the largest part providing partial support for some 28 missionary families in various posts around the world. Of these families — their pictures are displayed prominently in the front lobby — two-thirds are young people from the church, who grew up in its Sunday School or, as University students, attended Sunday services, or, as Seminary Students, assisted in a summer ministry.

Westerly Road Church maintains a close affiliation with the Princeton Evangelical Fellowship at Princeton University, founded 40 years ago by Dr. Donald B. Fullerton and carried on today by the Rev. Wayne Weaver. Mr. Morgan says that one of the vital aspects of the church is seeing the "steady stream of young people committed to the Lord and doing the Lord's work in this country and abroad."

Another "special joy" of his 24 years here is thinking of the lives that have been changed. "We feel that is why the Lord our Heavenly Father sent his son, and we have seen some real transformations."

Mr. Morgan expects to continue preaching and Bible teaching in New Jersey after his retirement — he is only shedding the administrative responsibilities of a church. He is active on the board of America's Keswick, a Bible conference and retreat center not far from the Crestwood retirement village, and looks forward to continuing that activity.

Meanwhile Westerly Road Church continues to grow. With membership back up again to 250 after the creation of the "daughter" chapel, the church is doing some "serious thinking" about its future. The two Harris sisters have recently given their two houses on Mountain Avenue to the church — one is being used for missionary furloughs and the other by the assistant pastor.

Having weathered the 1960's and early 70's when religion in general, and the church in particular, were at a low point, Pastor Morgan is departing at a time when the fundamental and evangelistic emphasis that characterize Westerly Road are at an all-time high.

OCTOBER 12 THE DATE
For CROP Walk. The annual fall CROP Walk for Hunger will take place Sunday afternoon, October 12, with registration at 1 in Palmer Square.

The purpose of the Walk is to raise money for CROP-sponsored self-help programs around the world and at home. Walkers or joggers obtain sponsors who pledge a certain amount for each kilometer walked. Last year 350 walkers raised $11,000; this year the target is 400 walkers or joggers and $15,000.

The Walk, which has been shortened this year from 10 miles to 10 kilometers or six miles, will begin at 1:30 and end at 5:30. The route will be a loop via The Great Road and back to Palmer Square.

A country rock band will play in Plamer Square to send the walkers and joggers off to a good start. The Jaycees will man the route with checkpoints and iced water. Eleven churches, the Jewish Center and the four secondary schools — Princeton Day School, Princeton High School, Stuart Country Day and the Hun School — are all recruiting walkers and joggers and their sponsors.

The YMCA is also serving as a recruitment center and the place where monies can be returned after the walk.

This year 25 percent of the proceeds will go to the Forum in Trenton for emergency food relief and clothing. The remainder will go overseas to Cambodia and Thailand and other countries experiencing severe food shortages. CROP funds buy seeds, fertilizers and tools for farmers in underdeveloped countries and help build wells, dams, housing and irrigation projects.

For further information call 921-3717, 921-8580 or 452-3101.

The Unsuccessful Do-it-Yourselfer

Painting the outside of your house by an amateur painter can look very nice, but gets very costly to redo if that new paint is flaking off in a short time, due to poor preparation, moisture problem or the use of the wrong type of paint. Before you start, consult Julius H. Gross, Princeton, with 25 years professional painting experience to analyze the surface, moisture testing, recommending proper surface preparation and type of primers and finish paint to be used. Consultation fee $25 in most cases. Call Julius H. Gross at 609-924-1474 for an appointment on your job.

Conference on Danger of Nuclear Arms Race Largely Attended; Warning Issued: 'Our Species May Go Way of the Pterodactyl'

In an outpouring reminiscent of Vietnam War protests and the Civil Rights movement, Princeton residents by the hundreds last weekend flocked to a teaching conference on the dangerous proliferation of nuclear weapons sponsored by the Christian and Jewish religious communities.

According to the sponsors of the event, there were 1,000 registrants for the two-day affair. The Princeton University Chapel, which seats over 2,000, was filled to capacity on Sunday morning for an inter-faith worship service that was an integral part of the conference.

Dr. Harvey Cox, Professor of Divinity at Harvard Divinity School, gave the sermon, entitled "Enough: A Contribution to a Theology of Peace-Making." Using a text from Luke, "Jerusalem, Jerusalem, if only you knew the things that make for peace," and a line from a Stoppard play, "There must have been a time, somewhere near the beginning, when we could have said no," he urged his listeners to insist on a moratorium in the research, production and deployment of nuclear weapons "lest our species go the way of the pterodactyl."

Choirs from Christ Congregation, Nassau Presbyterian Church, Princeton University Chapel, the Unitarian and Methodist Churches sang as one choir, Gustav Holst's "Turn Back, O Man," under the direction of Prof. Walter Nollner. Clergy from the sponsoring churches and the spiritual leader of the Jewish Center read the lessons, gave the prayers, and led a responsive "litany of peace."

Distinguished Speakers. The principal part of the conference, however, took place in Nassau Presbyterian Church, where the main pews and those in the gallery were consistently filled by those who had come to hear a roster of distinguished speakers Saturday evening, all Sunday afternoon and into Sunday evening. Young people and old, black and white, American and foreign-born, they listened attentively to Paul Warnke, former head of the U.S. Disarmament Agency and chief negotiator for the SALT II talks urge the ratification of the SALT II Agreement as a basis and beginning for further reductions in nuclear arms.

"The Soviets may be nasty, but they are not crazy," he asserted. "They are deeply interested in national survival and have a religious fervor about their territory. They know they can't win a nuclear war, and they are more vulnerable than we are." By ratifying SALT II, Mr. Warnke, quantitative reduction and qualitative control of nuclear arms is gained on both sides.

Richard Barnet, senior fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C. began the talks on Sunday afternoon with an address on "The Myth of Security." "Most people accept the premise that more weapons mean more security," he said, "but no nation increases its security by decreasing the security of its opponent. Deterrence is not a deterrent precisely because it is seen as a potential source of attack," he said. "We march toward annihilation under the banner of realism."

Mr. Barnet added that the U.S. must recognize that revolutionary nationalism in other countries cannot be deterred. The U.S. must also realize, he said, that in the military pursuit of arms the civilian economy becomes starved.

Scapegoats Cited. Richard Falk, following Mr. Barnet as a "respondent," added that U.S. government leaders are "at a loss" to find an economic policy that will control inflation and at the same time avoid creating a political system that "squeezes the disadvantaged." "We have grave problems we don't have the imagination to solve," he said, and therefore reliance is placed on military posturing and a policy of reassurance.

Freeman Dyson, physicist with the Institute for Advanced Study, in a talk entitled, "A Quest for Concept," discussed non-violent resistance and a policy of "Parity Plus Damage Limiting," or "Live and Let Live," as being alternatives to the "Assured Destruction" course on which the Soviet Union and the U.S. seems to be heading. Non-violent resistance he laid aside as lacking in necessary "robustness," and the other he described as moving from an offense-dominated to a defense-dominated posture.

After a break for "high tea," the audience returned to hear Randall Forsberg of the Brookline, Mass., based Institute for Defense and Disarmament Studies detail the potential and history of conventional and nuclear weapons in Russia and the U.S. It is argued, she said, "that we have to have nuclear weapons so we don't need the conventional weapons and conventional weapons so we won't use the nuclear."

Ms. Forsberg called for nuclear arms reduction, constraint in conventional intervention in developing countries, a reduction in NATO and Warsaw Pact forces and a halt to innovation in conventional weaponry.

The conference was brought to a conclusion by Cora Weiss of the Disarmament Program at Riverside Church in New York City, who outlined a number of steps that members of the audience could take. These included writing the N.Y. Times, Congressmen and Senators, holding more conferences, establishing a Princeton Peace Fund, joining demonstrations, urging the University and Seminary to teach courses on peace, and establishing a draft counseling center.

Dr. Wallace Alston of Nassau Presbyterian Church and the Rev. John Crocker Jr. of Trinity Episcopal Church, the initiators of the conference, alternated as moderators. The entire proceedings were taped, and tapes may be made available at a future date.

Although people lined up six or eight deep at each of the two microphones during several periods set aside for questions, questions from the floor were limited. This was partly due to time constraints and partly to the tendency of questioners to make lengthy statements rather than as pithy questions.

The Steering Committee planning the conference has set Sunday, October 19, from 2 to 3:30 at the United Methodist Church as a follow-up meeting. Participants are invited "to explore the educational and action programs in which we may continue our interest in and commitment to reversing the nuclear arms race."

A Nuclear Holocaust Described

A graphic description, in support of the need to protect mankind against a nuclear war, was provided during the conference by Dr. Helen Caldicott, the Australian-born Harvard pediatrician. The founder of Physicians for Social Responsibility and a crusader against the medical hazards of nuclear power, Dr. Caldicott, who was given a standing ovation by the capacity audience, painted a vivid picture of the holocaust that would result from nuclear war.

Those who survive would wish they were dead, she asserted. There would be corpses everywhere, few doctors to treat the radiation sickness, not enough hospital beds for those with burns; no water, no food, no landmarks by which to make one's way to a presumably safer place.

The ozone layer would be disrupted by the force of the blasts and oxygen depleted by firestorms. She urged women as mothers and grandmothers -- and "the woman in every man" -- to take up the anti-nuclear cause as the "ultimate in preventive medicine."

After the conference, Dr. Caldicott talked with a small group of doctors from the audience and agreed to speak at a later date and in more strictly medical terms to doctors from Rutgers Medical School and its several teaching hospitals, of which Princeton Medical Center is one.

REHEARSING "MOBY DICK": Queequeg (Hubert Kelly) and Captain Ahab (Richard Risso) in a tense moment from Orson Welles' "Moby Dick Rehearsed," which will open October 10—after previews October 7-9—at McCarter. It will play in repertory with "The Taming of the Shrew."

IN SEARCH OF WHALES
 Cap'n Ahab, Rehearsed. November 8.
 Orson Welles' adaptation of "Moby Dick" called "Moby Dick Rehearsed," will open at McCarter next Friday, October 10, playing in repertory with "The Taming of the Shrew" through November 8. In adapting Moby Dick for the stage, Welles has conceived a group of Shakespearean actors at the turn of the century. They set aside their rehearsal of "King Lear" in order to run through Queequeg, Starbuck and the doomed Ahab himself. William Woodman, who directed "Moby Dick Rehearsed" for the inaugural season of the new Denver Center Theatre Company, is directing this production as well. He was for five years the Artistic Director of Chicago's Goodman Theatre, where he produced approximately 50 plays. For McCarter's production, Richard Risso will be Ahab, Gary Roberts will portray Ishmael, Hubert Kelly will be Queequeg and John Mansfield, Starbuck.

News Of The THEATRES

Melville's tragic story of Captain Ahab and his search for the great white whale.

In the process, the actors recreate for themselves and their audience, all the thunder and romance of the whaling ship "Pequod" and her immortal crew -- Ishmael.

The season will begin November 14 and 15 with the Feld Ballet, a hit of the season two years ago. Described by Clive Barnes as "The most talented classic choreographer of his generation anywhere in the world," Eliot Feld choreographed for the American Ballet Theatre when he was only 24. He founded his own company in 1973, and has since created more than two dozen ballets for its dancers. In February, McCarter will present the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theatre which has appeared at McCarter more often than any dance group in the last 15 years except Pilobolus. The Ailey dancers combine modern, classical and jazz, reflecting both the black and white heritage of America. The Pennsylvania Ballet, one of the nation's six largest classical dance companies and one of the few that tours with its own orchestra, will visit McCarter in March for two programs. The company's 31 dancers, under the direction of Benjamin Harkavy, give 80 performances a season in Philadelphia, and also form the resident ballet company at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. PRIZES IN ONE ACT Schnessel Wins Awards. Two one-act plays by Princeton playwright S. Michael Schnessel are on the awards lists of two producing organizations in the eastern United States.

"Cassie's Miracle," a one-act satire, won second place in the 1979-80 John Gassner Memorial Playwriting Award of the New England Theatre Conference. "A Widow in the Midnight Sun," also a one-act, received honorable mention in the Virginia Weisbrod playwriting competition of the Little Theatre of Alexandria, Va.

Mr Schnessel's full-length drama, "The Serpent Smiles," will be the opening play of the season for Princeton Community Players. The playwright is art and drama critic for The Trentonian.

"Cassie's Miracle," chosen from 175 plays submitted by authors from all parts of the country, deals with a miracle that happens in the kitchen of an apartment in New York's Harlem. The devotion of Cassie and the greed of a popular evangelist combine in a way that destroys both Cassie's faith, and the miracle itself.

"A Widow in the Midnight Sun" is about a used-car salesman who wins the New York State lottery and forms a curious partnership with a mysterious woman grieving for her husband.

Both plays will be presented, "Cassie's Miracle" in a reading by The People's Theatre in Cambridge, Massachusetts on October 19, and "A Widow" in a full-scale production in Alexandria on October 23-25.

GUITARIST TO PLAY

At Nassau Church. Alice Artzt, classical guitarist, will perform at Nassau Presbyterian Church on Sunday at 4.

Ms. Artzt will give the first in a series of concerts which will also include Lawrie Bloom, clarinetist with the Chicago Symphony; Joseph McKee, baritone opera soloist; and Brian Mitnaul, organist. Each of these musicians was formerly active at Nassau Church and is now returning to present a benefit concert in dedication of the church's new concert piano. Since Ms. Artzt's London debut in 1969, critics in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and the Americas have praised her performances. She showed talent from an early age. After studying the piano and the flute, she turned to the classic guitar at the age of 13. She studied the guitar in France with Ida Presti and Alexandre Lagoya, and in England with Julian Bream.

Since her international debut, Ms. Artzt, whose home is at 51 Hawthorne Avenue, has toured Europe extensively and performed throughout North America. She has also made frequent tours to almost all of South and Central America and Mexico, Africa, the Middle East, Asia, Australia and the Far East. Her solo programs include a wide range of styles from Renaissance and Baroque lute music, which she studies from the original tablatures, to contemporary compositions.

ART In Princeton

NEW JERSEY ART SHOWN At Squibb Gallery. Since its earliest days, New Jersey has suffered from comparison with its neighbors, New York and Philadelphia, and its role as a corridor between the two urban giants. In its earliest years, Ben Franklin described the young colony as a barrel tapped at both ends.

Both conditions have continued for three centuries. Ask anyone who doesn't live here and some who do. The answer will reinforce the New Jersey booster's greatest fears about the state's image.

New Jersey's art world has had as many image problems as the rest of the state's subgroups and communities. New York is, without a doubt, the art capital of the world, and New Jersey, unfortunately does not even have a single center to serve as a location for the best of its artistic product and a focus for creative energy.

New Jersey art is a fragmented business in which several geographic centers, and many groups that represent individual disciplines, exist in-

IN EXHIBIT AT SQUIBB GALLERY: "Gina," an acrylic

Community College, is part of the current show, "New Jersey Selects: Images and Visions," at the Squibb Gallery on Route 206.

dependently. The state's art public and their view of New Jersey as a cultural resource reflect the problems created by the split focus.

The exhibition "New Jersey Selects: Images and Visions" on display at the Gallery at E.R. Squibb, on Route 206 between Princeton and Lawrenceville, has enough variety and scope to reassure the viewer that competent, reputable art is being made in New Jersey.

Painting and sculpture by a group of noted artists includes the photorealism fashionable in trendy art circles, traditional realism that creates a sense of nostalgia, surrealist juxtapositions of familiar forms, and the various combinations of paint, color, and hard and soft lines that represent the imagery or non-imagery created when artists dispense with the real.

A goodly number of the paintings are by artists whose work has received some degree of acclaim outside the state. Others are the work of artists whose reputation, we assume, is expected to grow.
It is a safe show and it is not possible to find fault with the quality of the included paintings.

The collection, however, lacks impact. Much of today's art receives kudos for conforming to current style and seems to develop in response to aesthetic fashion rather than the demands of the muse.
The work of the emerging,
younger group essentially reflects trends and stylistic goals that the current art market has established. The work of the more distinguished senior group mirrors their earlier, acknowledged successes.

The creative drama to be found in this collection exists in the quality and character of the sculpture. Surfaces of a variety of materials, and the interaction between the created shapes and spaces, offer a dynamic visual counterpoint to the more static two-dimensional work.

Included are an heroically scaled work in wood by Jane Teller. The dynamic tensions created by this major piece are intensified by the contrasts between the rugged construction of Teller's sculpture and the polished smooth surfaces of Raul Farcos' marble abstraction, and the sense of strength expressed in metal by Mel Edwards. A cast plaster
Segal, in which the real and the unreal struggle for dominance, enriches the affect of the sculpture display.

At McCarter Theatre. Each year the Princeton Art Association opens the exhibition season at McCarter with a display of the work of the winners of the juried show held during the preceding year. Two of this year's winners offer some variety of style while maintaining enough similarities to allow the kind of comparisons which

result in an interesting viewing experience.

Both Eiko Kahn, chosen for watercolor painting and Helen Yaker, whose graphics are featured, use the landscape as a major theme. Both artists employ soft, translucent color, and use their medium with skill, and both employ their imagery as a point of departure to create exciting shapes, good color interaction, and a sense of depth and surface iridescence.

The contrasts between media, including both the technical limitations of the materials and the optical possibilities and evocative effects created by these differences, carry each artist in a different direction, even when they are dealing with the same subject. Kahn's layers of translucent color, deftly applied, create glowing blends and loosely structured compositions. Yakers carefully develops spatial divisions using earthy tones to permit the surface whiteness to penetrate the inks and maintain a luminosity heightened by the judicious use of line.

The exhibition includes photographs by Katarzyna Gruda and acrylics by Susan Roseman.

At the Nassau Gallery. The current gallery display includes a new series of collographs by Margaret K. Johnson. After several years of working in Japan, this Princeton printmaker has subtly altered the character of her graphics while maintaining the same harmonious combination of shapes and dynamic silhouettes that characterized her earlier work.

The latest prints are almost monochromatic. Inking techniques are richer, but the blends are subtler. Metallic surfaces capture the light with embossed forms; controlled blends of color form single visual units. The balance between shapes, which has always been one of Johnson's strong points, has been heightened and intensified by the restricted color relationships.

At Gallery 100. Traditional watercolors by R. K. Kaiser include landscape, nautical studies and nature forms. The artist uses a naturalistic palette to develop familiar subjects. Most interesting are several wharf scenes in which delicate color combinations create an atmosphere that intensifies the affect of the subject.

Only one runner in the history of the National Football League ever gained over 2,000 yards rushing in a single season ... The only player to reach the magic 2,000 mark is O.J. Whipped by Rutgers as Series Ends, Tigers Return to Ivy Race with Tempered Optimism

PITCHER AND CATCHER: Quarterback Bob Holly (9) throws strike to tailback Cris Crissy from seven yard-line for Princeton's first touchdown against Rutgers. In two games, Holly has 31 completions and a .762 percentage, while Crissy has 11 receptions.

As his Princeton football team heads toward its game with Brown in Palmer Stadium Saturday, Coach Frank Navarro is in effect spending part of his time with his players in the classroom. The curriculum is a mix of chalk talks on how to eliminate mistakes and lectures on applied psychology.

If they play the brand of football of which they are presumably capable, cutting down on fumbles, penalties and errors in execution, they will win their 1980 home opener from a Brown team which is also 0-2 and unsure of its future in the Ivy race it had hoped to dominate. But Navarro must first bring his players to believe that they can rebound from their solid 44-13 trouncing at the hands of Rutgers -- and do so against an opponent which has beaten them every year since 1972.

Something is wrong in Providence, and the Tigers hope they can write the third chapter in the Bruins' present search for surcease. Their fine quarterback, Larry Carbone (the league's total offense leader in 1979) has been slowed alternately by tendinitis in his heel and sprained ligaments in his knee but has been listed as a starter for Saturday.

The difficulty has been on defense, where graduation swept out the entire line and the replacements have not done the job, as Yale rolled to a 45-17 triumph and Bucknell followed with a 28-20 upset. The linebackers and the deep secondary are all holdovers. In compiling its seven-game string over the Tigers, Brown has never allowed them more than two touchdowns and if this mastery can be broken Saturday, a potentially high-scoring game may go Princeton's way.

Tailback Rick Villella and fullback Steve Curtin are the Bruins' principal ball carriers -- both are fine performers. Carbone's principal targets are flanker Mitch Metz and tight end Steve Jordan, and the game should produce quite an aerial battle between the OFFENSE: Will test Tigers, particularly if quarterback Larry Carbone is injury-free. Bruins can generally score.

QUICK LOOK AT BROWN

DEFENSE: Sub-par to date, allowing 73 points in two games. If Tigers can run against it, they should win.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Awareness of need to win first game away from home. Team losing Saturday will be out of Ivy race.

week earlier, there was no doubt at New Brunswick as to which team was superior. The Tigers trailed 21-0 with less than 13 minutes gone and by 31-7 at the half because of a number of misplays of the very elementary variety.

Rutgers' first touchdown drive needed to cover only 18 yards because Larry Van Pelt fumbled the kickoff at the goal line and was downed six yards away from it. Ken Buck's punt from the 20 a few plays later was blocked, the Scarlet recovered two yards behind the line of scrimmage and in six plays quarterback Ed McMichael hit on the first of his four touchdown passes.

He recorded his second less than three minutes after that when Princeton stalled out, Buck punted to the Rutgers' 39 and flanker Dave Dorn ran beyond the Tiger secondary where he caught a beautifully-timed pass to complete a 61-yard scoring play. With 4:51 gone, the Orange and Black was down, 14-0.

The victors' next TD was chargeable to a Princeton error that even the oldest resident of the press box could not recall ever having seen. Rutgers tried a field goal from the 24 but it faded to the right. When the Tigers were charged with defensive holding -- to prevent forward motion by one of nine players trying only to protect the kicker -- the Scarlet got a first down and three plays later, McMichael had thrown his third touchdown pass.

Holly Gets Two for Losers. If the Tigers were fast becoming victims of an early rout, it did not affect the intensity with which they played. As the quarter was drawing to a close, they launched a 74-yard scoring drive which culminated when Holly threw diagonally to his right from the seven to Cris Crissy who went over from the three untouched.

After a 26-yard Rutgers field goal and a picturesque screen pass for 23 yards and another touchdown made it 31-7 after 30 minutes, the third quarter

PHS Football Team Blanks So. Brunswick, 28-0; Faces Ewing in Home Opener Saturday Morning

The first time Paul Miles carried the ball in Princeton High's football opener against South Brunswick Friday night, he bolted up the middle for 14 yards. That set the tone. Right then, followers of PHS sensed that Miles -- and the Little Tigers -- would be hard to stop.

Miles went on to carry 25 more times, churning out 199 yards and scoring two touchdowns on runs of three and 13 yards. (Another 20-yard TD was wiped out by a holding penalty.) PHS scored once in every period to defeat a surprisingly punchless South Brunswick team, 28-0.

"It's a big shot in the arm," agreed PHS coach Jim Beachell. "It's so important to win that first one."

Going into the contest, Beachell had been concerned about how well his untested offensive and defensive lines, comprised mostly of underclassmen, would perform. "They passed the test well," he said after the game.

The Little Tigers played a solid game. Considering it was the first of the season, there were few mistakes. They completely shut down the Vikings and their quarterback Jeff Flanders.

Home Opener Saturday. Both PHS and Ewing, its next opponent, will get a better idea of how good each is when the two meet Saturday morning at 11 at the PHS field. The Blue Devils ran through McCorristin in their opener en route to an easy 42-6 win.

Operating out of its Delaware wing-T offense, Ewing was content to stay on the ground as former quarterback Mike Hatcher and Brian Bivins combined for five touchdowns. The fleet Bivins rushed for 102 yards on 12 carries.

"They're going to be tough," said Beachell. The game will be Princeton's first in the Colonial Valley Conference.

Before a good-sized Princeton crowd in South Brunswick, PHS stopped the Vikings on their first possession and then marched down field. With quarterback Dave Dinella directing the attack, PHS went 76 yards in 14 carries, Miles carrying on nine of them. The only pass, a bullet from Dinella to Jamie Petrone, carried 18 yards to the Viking three, from where Miles dived over. Terry Phox booted the extra point.

Sixty-three seconds into the second period, future fullback Larry McKellar, playing defensive end, tipped a Flanders pass and ran it in from the 17 to give PHS a 13-0 margin. McKellar had an outstanding game. He had back-to-back sacks of Flanders in the final period for sizeable losses and was in the Viking backfield most of the night.

"He's outstanding," agreed Beachell. "He's a blue chip player. He's got excellent speed. You have to run away from him; he's almost as fast as Miles."

Princeton's third tally was set up when McKellar recovered a fumble on the Viking 41. Miles, who had 88 yards in the first half, took it in from the 13, lugging the ball four times in the six-play drive. A workhorse, Miles then ran the extra point to give PHS a 21-0 lead.

Varvel Gets Final TD. Fullback Bryan Varvel's four-yard plunge capped Princeton's final scoring drive, set up by a short Viking punt that carried to the PHS 35. Earlier, in a previous drive, the indefatigable Miles had been hit around the three-yard line. The ball squirted free and appeared to have rolled out of bounds but the official covering the play ruled that it had carried into the end zone where a Viking defender fell on it, turning it over to the home team.

Miles was superb. He knows, he said after the game, that he is a marked man, "but you just have to play with that." Asked about the blocking, he replied that "most of our line are underclassmen; they're trying to do their best and we'll do our best. We'll be in there."

Defense Delights. Beachell commented that he knew he had blocking but was concerned about the defense. It turns out that he has fashioned quarterback Mark Lockenmeyer got his first chance of the season, proving only that while he can run better than Holly, Holly's current ability to pass with extreme efficiency will keep him in the starting role.

Some 26,000, 3,000 of them standing or sitting on slopes beside the stands, saw the final game of the series, which will certainly not be renewed in the foreseeable future. Not only did Rutgers's total and its margin of victory -- both the highest on record -- illustrate graphically the wide divergence in football philosophy of the two colleges -- but the Scarlet is solidly booked well into the next decade.

The significance of the occasion was suitably marked by home team fans who managed to tear down both sets of goal posts before the game ended, despite some sturdy opposition from out-manned security personnel.

Opportunity for Tigers. While Crissy and Van Pelt were predictably controlled by Rutgers's swarming defense (Crissy was 16 for 28, Van Pelt 11 for 29), much of the Tigers' immediate future will be determined by what they can achieve now that they are back in their own league. If the running of two All-Ivy backs and the passing show that Holly is staging cannot put Princeton in the victory column, it will be a considerably longer season than had initially been thought likely.

After a fine 18-for-29 performance against Cornell, Holly completed all but two of his 15 attempts Saturday, one of which was dropped. Most were for relatively short yardage (119 in all) as they frequently went across the middle that had been cleared out by other receivers drawing the defense deep.

There is a flaw in the offense in that Holly does not run well and the option erodes because he invariably pitches out, keeping only if he has no choice. Nonetheless, the personnel that will be on the field Saturday will be evenly matched overall -- instead of being heavily weighted in Brown's favor -- and the Tigers will see if they can rescue the first third of their season rather than have it become a millstone around their necks.

PDS ROMPS, 34-0

Over Dwight-Englewood. Notching its second consecutive shutout victory last Saturday, the Princeton Day football team is starting to gain momentum, and may be difficult to stop in the weeks to come.

The Panthers' latest victim was Dwight-Englewood, which PDS soundly outplayed on both offense and defense, rolling to a 34-0 triumph. "We're getting better with every game," commented coach Jim Walker. "The line and the backs are starting to understand each other's movements."

The Blue and White will face its first contest on the road this Saturday, when it travels to north Jersey to meet Montclair-Kimberly. The games should be getting tougher from this point on.

Last year PDS needed last minute heroics from John Denny and Tim Murdoch to nip Montclair 8-3, and two years ago at Montclair, the Panthers were soundly defeated. So far this season, Montclair is 0-1, losing to Riverdale in its opener this past weekend.

Offense Shines. A week ago, the Princeton Day defense had to make the big play to enable the lone touchdown scored by the offense stand up for a 6-0 win. This week, the offense took the pressure off early, building a 20-0 lead by half-time as the Panthers scored in every quarter.

Gaining 255 yards, the PDS ground game was again in top form, and John Drezner got it in gear early. Taking the opening kick-off the Panthers worked the ball down inside the Dwight 45, and then Drezner took off around right

OUT OF THE BLUE: Dwight-Englewood demonstrated very little on the football field in a 34-0 loss to Princeton Day last Saturday, but its cheerleading contingent, led by Brooke Shields, showed some good moves on the sidelines. The 15-year old actress is best known, especially to teenagers, for her role in "The Blue Lagoon."

end all the way down to the one-yard line. Reggie Reese punched it across from there, and PDS led 7-0 after Newell Thompson's conversion.

Later in the same quarter, Drezner showed his defensive ability, intercepting a Dwight pass and running it back some 40 yards for a touchdown. Unfortunately, that score was nullified by a clipping penalty, but it was not missed later on.

In the second period, after a short kick, the PDS offense got rolling again from the Dwight 45. The drive culminated on a beautifully executed pass play from senior quarterback Joe Warren to end John Denny, who caught a 21-yard aerial just in bounds for six points.

Switching Quarterbacks. Walker used Warren in passing situations, while keeping freshman quarterback Scott Roberts in there on running plays, and the strategy worked well. Warren completed three of seven, and if he is able to develop the passing into a strong threat, PDS will be very hard to stop indeed.

Ahead by 14-0, Princeton Day wasted little time scoring its third touchdown after Scott Egner recovered a fumble on the Dwight 14-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Thompson went off left tackle and into the end zone. He missed his only conversion of the day after this one, and PDS led 20-0.

After the half, the Panthers went right to work again, and were soon knocking at the door for a fourth time. This time Roberts executed a nice quarterback option from the three-yard line, hesitating for a moment after the snap, and then running right up the middle and into the end zone.

Princeton Day completed the rout in the fourth quarter, when Thompson scored his second touchdown on a fine 37-yard jaunt over left guard and down the left sideline. His fourth extra point gave him 16 points for the day.

Thompson topped off the afternoon by rushing for 100 yards. Drezner ran for 92 and Reese 60. Reese also did a superb job in the PDS secondary, batting down several Dwight passes.

Gaining credit for its second straight shutout, the PDS defense bottled up the visitors' attack through all four quarters, never allowing the losers to get inside the PDS 25. The Bulldogs also had the misfortune of losing their first-string quarterback for a good chunk of the game, when he suffered a deep gash on his leg. Incredibly, the cut was stitched up, and he was put back in the game in the fourth quarter.

Another star performer from Dwight-Englewood spent the whole game on the sidelines, limited to a supporting role as a cheerleader. Looking as fresh as if she had just stepped out of a Blue Lagoon, 15-year old Brooke Shields cheered lustily for her school, and signed a few autographs in between, but could not rally the Dwight players.

PDS LOSES SECOND

In Soccer. The Princeton Day soccer team lost its second consecutive game by a score of 4-1 last Wednesday to Hightstown. The previous Monday the Panthers fell to Ewing by the same tally.

The Rams, who won their second game without a loss, jumped out to a two-goal margin in the first period, and added single tallies in the second and third. Tom Neilson led the way with one goal and two assists. Ian Rothrock got the Blue and White's lone score in the fourth period.

The Panthers' next game was scheduled to be played Tuesday afternoon against Princeton High School away. On Saturday, the team will travel to north Jersey for a contest with Montclair-Kimberly.

PHS GUNS DOWN WW

In Shoot-Out Win. When Monday's field hockey game between Princeton High and West Windsor ended in a scoreless tie at the end of regulation time, the teams engaged in a five-player shoot-out to decide the outcome.

PHS won the shoot-out and the game, 2-0. Fran Johnston, the first of five shooters for the Little Tigers, rammed a shot past WW goalie Gwen Jacobs. Teammate Debbie Cedeno, Princeton's third shooter, also beat Jacobs.

PHS goalie, Mary Allyce Heeg, who combined with sweeper Katy Heinzl to blank the Pirates in regulation play, turned back West Windsor in the shoot-out. The Colonial Valley Conference is the only league in the state using the shoot-out.

"I think it's fair," said PHS coach Joyce Jones. "It gives the goalie and offensive players a chance to show their talents."

In other games last week, PHS lost a league contest to Hopewell Valley, 2-1, and routed South Brunswick, 7-0. In the latter, Courtney Huff scored three goals and Susie Gates and Gladys Rice two each.

The game with rival Hopewell Valley was tied 1-1 with five minutes left to play when the Bulldogs' Lisa Green, on a penalty corner, took a cross from Diana Peyton and shoved a shot past Heeg. Huff scored the game's first goal for PHS.

Soccer Team Winning. It was a busy week for Coach Carol Parsons's girls soccer team.

The Little Tigers slipped past West Windsor, 3-2, Monday on goals by Sue Mooney and on Friday won another CVC league game when they defeated Hopewell Valley by the same 3-2 score.

Mooney scored twice for the Little Tigers and was credited with an assist on Stephanie Lofgren's goal. The score was tied 1-1 after three periods. Bonnie Suydam scored both HV goals.

Still earlier in the week, PHS was blanked, 4-0, by rival Princeton Day School, as the Panthers' Jessie Drezner scored a hat trick and Lea Erdman added another goal. The Little Tigers began the week with a victory over Montgomery High School.

Tennis Team 4-0. The PHS girls tennis team raised its record to 4-0 with a 4-1 victory over West Windsor Monday.

Patty Dinella and Julie Schwartz both won their singles matches by scores of 6-0, 6-1; 6-1, 6-0, but the number three singles sophomore, Rosemary Chowins, had to struggle through a three-setter before defeating Judeann Sapio, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

The number one doubles of Liza Reed and Leah Cope also had to struggle. They won the first set, 6-3, but were down 1-5 in the second before pulling even and winning the tie-breaker. Heather McVicker and Debbie Steir of PHS lost the number two doubles, 1-6, 3-6.

Earlier, PHS blanked both Hamilton and Trenton, 5-0. Danielle Storace, Dinella and Schwartz all won their singles match in straight sets. The number on doubles in both sets was a new pairing of sophomore Jenny Pickens and senior Liza Reed. "They give me a little more mobility, a little more consistency," said PHS coach Bill Humes.

McVicker and Chowins played the number two doubles against Hamilton, while Lizzy Brower and Steir were the second pairing against Trenton.

PHS IS SHOCKED, 7-2

By WW in Soccer. "It was not only bad, it was 7-2," said a surprised Ed Beacham Monday, as he tried to assay a shocking loss by his Princeton High soccer team to West Windsor.

"I don't know what's in store for us. The whole thing fell apart - we went back to individualism," said Beacham. "We just didn't do anything well. These are the games you have to win if you want to win the conference."

Richard Johnson's first goal of the season gave PHS an early 1-0 lead. But West Windsor tied it and then went ahead 3-1 at the half. The turning point came after the visitors scored on a penalty kick. PHS goalie Brent Robinson, in frustration, kicked the ball back in the net. He was thrown out of the game by the officials for his display of temper.

"It was all down hill after that. We never got back in the game," remarked Beacham. "They couldn't miss and we couldn't make anything. But they deserved to win. They played very well."

Eric Lysaker replaced Robinson in the net and Jay Bienkowski scored Princeton's second goal to make it 4-2. The Pirates applied the coup de grace with four goals in the final period.

Meanwhile, Beacham is waiting for a decision from high school principal Joho Sakala on whether Franz Celestin, one of the team's top players, can participate this season. Celestin, a bi-lingual student, has been benched until school officials review his individual educational plan.

The West Windsor loss was the second straight for the Little Tigers, who are now 1-1 in league play.

TOURNAMENT IN TENNIS

Tigers Are Favored. Princeton University will be the favorite to capture its eighth straight ECAC Division I Fall Tennis Tournament this weekend, Friday through Sunday, at the University Courts, even though its top player, All-American Jay Lapidus, has foregone his senior year of eligibility to turn professional. Lapidus, who as a junior last October won an unprecedented third straight ECAC Division I Tournament singles crown, made the decision to turn professional in August.

Now that Lapidus will not participate, the likely number one seed will be his teammate, senior Leif Shiras, who joined with Lapidus to win the ECAC Doubles title in 1979. Shiras, a participant in the recent U.S. Open and a member of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup team, advanced to the NCAA semifinals last spring, the best performance by an Ivy Leaguer in 20 years in that event.

Other top competitors for the "A" Division Singles Championship should be Don Pompan of Harvard, who lost in the finals (6-2, 7-6) to Lapidus last year, and Howard Sands, a Harvard sophomore, as well as John Stiepel and Glenn Layendecker of Yale, Craig Harrison and Dave Andrews of Navy, Bill Clark of Old Dominion, Murray Robinson of Pennsylvania, Scott Diehl of Brown, and Jeff Papell and Jim Rubin of Columbia.

This will be the 19th Annual ECAC Division I Tournament and Princeton has won seven straight and 12 of the previous 18. The last team other than Princeton to have won this tournament was Columbia, which captured its third championship in a row in 1972. On the Lion team was a freshman named Vitas Gerulaitis, now an outstanding professional. However, he was beaten in the ECAC finals that year by another Columbian, Rick Fagel, who also has played on the pro tour.

The tournament is staged in three divisions in both singles and doubles, "A", "B", and "C". Each team can enter two singles players and one doubles pair in each flight. A different type of individual match scoring will be used, a "no-ad" scoring system. This means the first player to earn four points wins that game. Team scoring is based on one point for each entry, one point for each advancement, and one-half point for each advancement in consolation play.

Tournament action begins at 8 on Friday morning and will continue until dark on Friday and Saturday. The singles and doubles finals will be held Sunday morning at 11.

HUN LOSES OPENER

George School Here Friday. "One thing we have this year is a team. Last year we really didn't work as a team; we had individuals."

With his team down 20-6 at the half and coming off an 0-8 season, Hun football coach Bill Stout observed, "They could have quit. But they didn't. I'm proud of every one of them."

Hun came back to dominate the second half in its opener Saturday against Newark Academy, but still lost, 20-12. Twice Hun had the ball, first down on the Newark three yard line, and each time it fumbled it away.

"It was the first game. They were excited. Human errors will happen; that didn't bother me at all," said Stout, making his debut as head coach.

George School Next. Hun will try to break that losing streak Friday afternoon when it entertains George School. Kickoff is at 3:30. It will be the first game for George School and Stout reports that he knows very little about them.

Visiting Newark Academy scored all three of its TDs in the second period on passes of 25, 40 and 55 yards. Hun cut the visitor's margin to 7-6 when its 125-pound quarterback Tim Landis hit Tim "Wheels" Lovering with an eight-yard pass and Lovering carried it in from the 15. "It was a well-executed pass," said Stout.

Newark widened its lead, however, when it dusted off the old flea-flicker and turned it into its second scoring strike. With 40 seconds left in the half, after a late-hit infraction enabled the visitors to escape from a 4th-and-15 situation, they scored again when a long wobbly pass went over the head of the Hun defender who had elected to try for an interception rather than knock it down.

Stout made a few adjustments at halftime and Hun responded. "We should have won it," said Stout.

In the third period, Landis connected with Scott Darwin on a post pattern for a 30-yard score. Landis ended with eight completions in eight attempts and 102 yards.

The bulk of the rushing for Hun was divided between Lovering and Wingback Matt Maslow. Lovering "was all over the field" and caught five passes, Stout said. He also cited the defensive play of linebackers Rich Landis and Lovering.

The game was costly for Hun. Maslow broke his arm making a diving tackle and will be out for the season. Stout described the 170-pound back and defensive end as one of the top three players on the team.

ANOTHER TITLE WON

By Conte-Staats. Princeton Recreation League softball champion Conte's-Staats won the Hamilton Township Singles Tournament held last week, sweeping five straight games. Singles play is identical to regulation slow-pitch softball except that games are played at little league fields and fair balls hit over the fence are outs.

Conte's-Staats swept through the tourney, defeating Maul's Liquor, 5-1; Dreme Machine, 10-1; and Sportabout, 5-2, to reach the winners' finals. Conte's-Staats then used its strong defense to down Iron Workers, 4-2. In the championship game, Conte's defeated Plainsboro, 8-6, to gain its second first-place tournament finish in as many weeks.

Batting stars for the victors include John Martini (.632), Paul McKenna (.611), Eric Eikrem (.538) and Joe Plumeri (.529). Paul McKenna pitched all five games for coach Walt Brower's tourney champs. The sweep gives Conte's-Staats a 59-23 won-lost record for 1980, and its third championship this year.

2 LEAGUE GAMES NEXT

For PHS Soccer Team. Sixteen hours after the Princeton High School soccer team had shaded Hopewell Valley, 1-0, for its first Colonial Valley Conference victory, the Little Tigers faced top-ranked Steinert Saturday morning at 10.

Thursday's rain had forced the Hopewell contest to be postponed by one day and any team opposing Steinert with less than 24 hours rest is asking for trouble. The Spartans won, 5-0, scoring three second-half goals.

"We played very well for the first half," said PHS coach Ed Beacham. "Then we just ran out of gas. They have a good, good club."

Ahead for PHS are two league games, the first at home Thursday at 3:45 against Hightstown and the second Monday at McCorristin. Beacham has stated that out of the first six games, he hopes his team can win five. "I think we have a good shot at it," he said.

Defensive Struggle. The game with Hopewell evolved into a defensive struggle as PHS had only two shots on goal in the first half and the hometown Bulldogs two. A strong wind that swept across the field throughout the contest was a big factor, Beacham pointed out, aiding PHS in the first and third periods, Hopewell in the second and fourth.

With 7:02 left in the third period, Jay Bienkowski headed in the game's only goal, assisted by Charlie Bolster and Colin Mahoney. "We got one and they didn't is what it amounts to," remarked Beacham.

Beacham cited his goalie, Brent Robinson, for a lot of "super saves." "Teams don't get any cheap goals on him," he said.

Most of the game took place in Princeton's half of the field and Beacham acknowledged that he was not happy with his team's play. "We really miss Andy Stenard in midfield," said Beacham. "He's a hustler, hustler, hustler. He's a gutsy kid."

Stenard, who excelled in bringing the ball down field in his first varsity game, the opener with Trenton, has been sidelined with an ankle injury.

Princeton won that opener with Trenton, 2-1. Bienkowski scored at the 12:52 mark of the first period off a pass from

Josh Miller. The two then combined for Princeton's second goal, Miller scoring at 4:13 in the second period when Bienkowski found Miller open in front of the net.

Mickey Reyes scored for the Tornados just before the end of the first half. The second half was scoreless.

MEN'S LEAGUE PLANNED

In Platform Tennis. The Recreation Department will offer a men's platform tennis league to Princeton residents and season ticket holders wishing to play platform tennis competitively on a weekly basis.

The league will operate on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7:30-10:30. Interested players should call the Recreation Department at 921-9480 before Thursday, October 9, so a men's league questionnaire may be sent to prospective players.

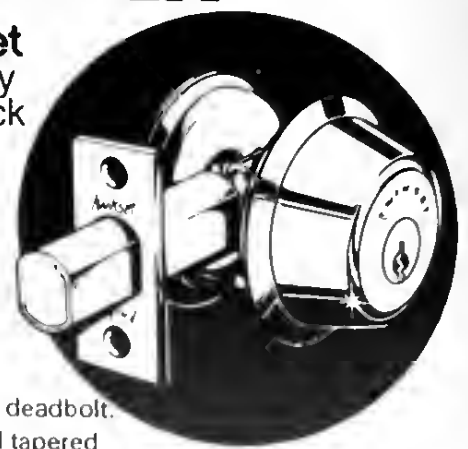

New players should attempt to find a partner to play with. All teams will be evaluated and placed in the division commensurate with its level of play. Those interested in full league play are responsible for attending a majority of scheduled matches. Substitutes will be available where conflicts arise in scheduling. The final training session of October 27 will cover the history of Bainbridge House, the furnishings of the permanent exhibit areas and procedures of guiding. All sessions will meet from 10 to noon at Bainbridge House, the Society's headquarters, except for the October 20 meeting at the United Methodist Church.

The Society is looking for people who enjoy greeting the public and are willing to make a serious commitment of at least two hours a week. All activities are run by volunteers.
